A Look at Our World

NEW PALTZ — What makes for a successful Environmental Fair? The public in attendance should evince real interest in the exhibits and the exhibitors should feel the time and effort they contributed was definitely worthwhile.

"The Environmental Spirit of '76" fair, sponsored by the Ulster County Environmental Management Council and held Sunday in Elting Gymnasium on the State University College at New Paltz campus met both those tests. The public came and made apparent by comments and questions that it is indeed concerned with clean air and water and with recycling, solid waste and resource recovery matters. And the exhibitors found themselves answering pertinent questions they had never thought of themselves.

If the fair had a major message, it was that independent businessmen through their own initiative can accomplish much in the recycling effort. And local and area businessmen were there to demonstrate they are willing and able to expand recycling efforts here.

A paper recycling plant in Napanoch has unlimited capabilities; tires are recycled in large numbers in Saugerties; tons of glass per month can be recycled by a nearby Massachusetts firm if local residents set up a collection point.

These are all local endeavors aimed at solving local environmental and ecological problems and, at Sunday's fair, the emphasis was on using them as part of the solution to the need for resource recovery here.

There was emphasis, too, on an environmental science contest for area high school students. Taking first prize in the contest was Kingston High School student Russell Sachs with his display of the effects of acid rain on both fish and plant life. Second prize went to the New Paltz High School Earth Committee for a cooling tower exhibit on which six student members had combined their efforts.

Highly successful in the eyes of its sponsor, "The Environmental Spirit of '76" attracted a large number of people who were already interested in environmental concerns and a considerable number of others who were introduced to concern for the problems as a result of the fair, which enjoyed cooperation between governmental agencies and commissions, environmental institutions and civic organizations, students and business firms.

Hitting The Welfare Trail

KINGSTON — The purpose of the trip is to discuss welfare reform. And sitting down for the discussion in Albany Tuesday along with Governor Hugh Carey will be Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, Legislature majority leader Ernest J. Gardner and Commissioner Bernhardt Kramer of the county's Department of Social Services.

What will happen in Albany tomorrow is still a moot question. But Savago and Gardner, who jointly stated last week that "welfare reform has been at the top of our list of priorities for a long time," will push for what they consider "two significant resolutions dealing with much needed reform in welfare" at the next regular session of the County Legislature on May 13.

The first resolution Savago and Gardner will co-sponsor calls upon the state to establish at state expense, a centralized data processing facility for all forms of welfare. Suggest the co-sponsors, "Such a system will provide a management tool that will assist in the prevention of duplicate payments to vendors and/or recipients under any welfare category—Medicaid, Home Relief, Aid to Dependent Children and others."

The second Savago-Gardner resolution to be introduced on the legislative floor this month would provide, in their opinion, "a firm financial position regarding welfare expenditures. The resolution urges the State Legislature to freeze the county dollar contribution of social services programming by Ulster County at 1976 expenditure levels.

Explain Savago and Gardner, "Upon adoption of this resolution we will freeze our welfare expenditures to the actual amounts expended in 1976 when we adopt our 1977 budget—zero growth!"

And, say the co-sponsors, "The resolution also states that if the county is ordered by the courts to spend beyond our budget, that it will only be done by reducing or eliminating current optional services offered by the county."

The resolution also calls upon the State Legislature to act upon the reforms sent to them by Ulster and other counties in a 12-point plan forwarded to Albany last fall.

Savago and Gardner say they have put "massive efforts" into welfare reform, most of which have had disappointing results in the State Legislature.

Those efforts had also involved "enabling the county to take over the Home Relief program from the towns."

That proposal was not adopted, say Savago and Gardner, because a survey of the towns—regarding their own preference and wishes—drew mixed and inconclusive results. They note that some Ulster County towns wanted the take over, others opposed it and another wanted the take over but with restrictions.

Savago and Gardner, again in a joint statement, place most of the burden for lack of welfare reform on Governor Carey and the Democratic leadership of the State Assembly—and on New York City representatives.

"Unless New York City members of the Assembly Social Services Committee stop blocking efforts for significant welfare reform," insist Gardner and Savago, "they will have every county in New York State in default—and that's not far away!"

Now traveling the welfare route in earnest, the first stop for Savago and Gardner (and Kramer) will be in Albany with Governor Carey on Tuesday and back home with the County Legislature on May 13 to introduce their dual resolutions.

Hinchey: New TWay Interchange As Aid to Resorts, Agriculture

PLATTEKILL — A new Thruway interchange in the vicinity of Routes 44 and 55 in the Town of Plattekill has been proposed by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist. He is convinced that better access to the 559-mile super highway would reduce considerably the time and distance involved in delivering products to the market.

Citing southern Ulster County as the hub of the fruit growing industry in the mid-Hudson area, Hinchey said vehicles now must leave the Thruway at Newburgh to travel to Plattekill and other southern Ulster County areas and are forced to use the local two-lane highway.

Appearing before the Plattekill Hotel and Restaurant Owners Association recently, Hinchey also pointed out that construction of the interchange would have the immediate effect of providing construction jobs at a time when many construction workers are unemployed.

Looking at long-range benefits to the area, the assemblyman said "many seasonal and year round vacation resorts are located in southern Ulster County. The new Thruway interchange would not only improve traveling conditions to the resort areas, but spur the growth of the vacation industry."

The proposed interchange would be located almost dead center between the Newburgh and New Paltz interchanges which are 17 miles apart. Hinchey also pointed out that the New York State Department of Transportation has scheduled a reconditioning and preservation project for Route 44-55 which will greatly improve that highway as a connection for the Thruway with the resort area.

McCullough and Feraca, who were commended for their investigative work by Police Chief Julius Glassman, interviewed some 30 people during the past week, including a number of suspects. They broke the case Sunday after interrogating DeGroat.

The third degree arson charge is based on the fact that the building was empty when the fire was set, but jeopardized the lives of other people. DeGroat was committed to the Ulster County Jail Sunday without bail pending today's arraignment.

The fire at Cafe Downtown, a restaurant owned by Robert Johnson started in a third floor apartment, and damaged much of the building.

City Youth Arrested

KINGSTON — A 16-year-old city youth was scheduled for arraignment today on a third degree arson charge in connection with the April 23 fire that heavily damaged the Cafe Downtown on West Strand.

James DeGroat of 11 Broadway was arrested Sunday afternoon by Det. Lt. Charles McCullough and Det. Sgt. Joseph Feraca of the Kingston Police Department. He was also charged with second degree arson in connection with a Nov. 27, 1975 fire at 11 Broadway, and with five counts of third degree burglary in connection with break-ins at a 63 Broadway residence in November and December last year.

Boston's Archbishop Fears Assault

BOSTON — Cardinal Humberto Medeiros says he would not go into South Boston or Charlestown to speak out against racial unrest because he might be physically assaulted.

Medeiros, in a copyrighted interview in the Boston Sunday Herald Advertiser, said he did not fear for his own safety, but wanted to avoid the national headlines such violence would bring.

"I am not going to South Boston to speak, to exhort, as so many think I should," said Medeiros, the spiritual leader of two million Roman Catholics in eastern Massachusetts.

Renewed Violence Puts Lebanon in Turmoil

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Raging artillery and mortar battles that left more than 200 dead in a weekend of nonstop killing threw Lebanon into new chaos today and overshadowed the political battle to choose a new president.

The warfare broke out after parliament postponed until next Saturday an emergency meeting to elect a successor to President Suleiman Franjeh. Fighting quickly spread throughout Beirut, its suburbs and to the Mt. Lebanon district east of the capital.

Israeli Patrols on Troubled West Bank

JERUSALEM — Thousands of soldiers and green-bereted border police patrolled key West Bank towns today to prevent any new eruptions of violence during a planned Arab protest against Israeli occupation.

A clash between troops and Arab demonstrators in Nablus Saturday escalated tension in the troubled region, scene of violent anti-Israeli protests during the past three months.

Dr. K. Sees Opposition to Africa Policy

NAIROBI, Kenya — A senior U.S. official says American multinational companies probably will oppose parts of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's "new Africa policy," especially trade restrictions against Rhodesia.

The official, traveling aboard Kissinger's Boeing 707, also said the secretary felt deep concern over the weekend victory of former California Governor Ronald Reagan in the Texas primary.

Rhodesia Mobilizes Against Insurgents

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Rhodesia has begun calling up its civilian reserves, launching a massive military offensive to wipe out the escalating black guerrilla insurgency.

The reservists — both black and white — started putting on their uniforms Sunday in a mobilization that could swell Rhodesia's field forces to 55,000 troops and police, an elevenfold increase over the current 5,000-man army.

Southern Bus Strike New Labor Woe

ATLANTA, Ga. — Labor disputes have halted Continental Trailways buses serving all or part of nine Southern states, the United Parcel Service in 13 Midwest states, the Big Four tiremakers and some of San Francisco's city services.

No progress was reported Sunday in strikes by nurses at a Willimantic, Conn., hospital, beer bottlers at Anheuser Busch Co., workers at a nuclear reactor on the Hanford Reservation in Washington or technicians and newswriters at the National Broadcasting Co.

No negotiations were scheduled toward ending a strike by 1,000 members of the Amalgamated Transit Union against five divisions of the nationwide Continental Trailways bus system. The walkout that began Saturday idled buses in eastern Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, and parts of Kentucky, Arkansas and Missouri.

'Fast Food' Diet Said Not So Bad

CHICAGO — The fast food fare of children — cheeseburgers, French-fries and milkshakes — may "stand up pretty well nutritionally," according to a report in the April issue of the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

The meal added up to about 4,100 calories, too high for inactive adults but only about 10 per cent higher than the intake for the average U.S. male adolescent.

Tomcats Accident Prone

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Navy's new F14 Tomcat fighter "is so plagued with problems that on any particular day only a quarter of the aircraft are fit for action."

"The Navy has spent $20.4 million for each of these planes, yet they are terribly unreliable," he said.

Quoting Navy Department data, he said problems with the Tomcat's TF30 jet engine, "have already been identified as the probably cause of six accidents." Aspin said a 7th Tomcat was shot down by one of its own missiles while undergoing tests.

UPTOWN KINGSTON

Gary Milewski of Trail Greenhouses assumes a tongue-in-cheek pose among leafy flora to publicize the plant and bake sale that will be held May 9 by the Rondout Valley Rod and

Gun Club for the benefit of the Kerhonkson Youth Commission.

RV Sportsmen Backing the Pool

KERHONKSON — The Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club is throwing its support behind efforts to insure that the Kerhonkson recreation pool as available for community youngsters this summer. The Kerhonkson Youth Commission, which operates the pool, faces a shortage of funds that could prevent the pool from opening this season. A letter detailing the commission's plight was read at the April meeting of the rod and gun club.

Club members didn't waste much time in deciding to lend a helping hand. The organization will sponsor a plant and bake sale at the club grounds on Sunday, May 9 (Mother's Day) from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. All the proceeds from the plant and bake sale will be turned over to the Kerhonkson

Youth Commission to assist in repairing and reopening the pool.

All community donations for the bake sale will be welcomed. Persons interested in donating foodstuffs should contact club members Fred Schwartz or Joe Cordaro. The plants for the sale will be donated by Gary Milewski of "Trail Greenhouses." Milewski is vice-president of the rod and gun club.

and butter, dessert and fruit punch, as well as free refreshments for the adults. Tickets for the dinner (a limited number are available) can be obtained at the Exxon Station in Kerhonkson, at Nick's Times Square Shell Station in Kerhonkson and at Trail Greenhouses.

Signs beginning on Route 209 will lead visitors to the club grounds for the plant and bake sale and the dinner.

In addition to the plant and bake sale, the club will sponsor a Mother's Day dinner that Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at the clubhouse. The dinner will feature prime shell steak, baked potato, vegetables, rolls

Civil Service 'Concerns' Klein

ESOPUS — Acting on "a complaint from a constituent concerning the administration of civil service in Ulster County," says County Legislature Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, E-Dist. 6, he made inquiries to Victor S. Bahou, president of the New York State Civil Service Commission. Now, says Klein, he is "most concerned" with Bahou's response.

Klein quotes Bahou as saying his commission has "become increasingly concerned over the manner in which the merit system is administered in Ulster County." He also noted that Bahou had

"specifically cited three violations of the civil service law by Ulster County" and confirmed, as of this month, that "one violation continued to exist."

Klein also said Bahou advised him that, more than two months ago, the state staff offered to assist Ulster's civil service commission "in straightening out its problem," but their offer was "never accepted."

Klein charged that the administration of the merit system by Ulster County government has been "bent, stretched and manipulated" in order for its rules "to meet the individual needs of political powers here." He suggested those rules "are meant to provide the best local government possible" and should be followed.

The minority leader said his criticism should not be construed to reflect on James E. Martin, newly appointed executive secretary of the county's Civil Service Commission, who recently assumed that position and was not involved in any of the criticized practices.

Bahou's office in Albany, said the three violations referred to concerned two provisional case workers who were continued in employment and one provisional case worker who is still being continued in employment in violation of civil service law.

And, while Bahou had expressed "concern" over the administration of the merit system here, he had also noted that its administration "has" been growing more complicated and voluminous over the past decade.

Bahou said his commission "strongly urges that the county create a professional personnel technician in the civil service office to provide necessary staff assistance to adequately administer the civil service law."

The state staff's offer to assist Ulster in straightening out its problems "had not been accepted, apparently because county funding was required for training the technician suggested."

A recent analysis of Ulster County civil service has been conducted by the Albany staff and its report will be issued in the near future.

Klein says he's sure that this "Management Survey Report," When released, "will substantiate" both his and Bahou's "concern over the administration of the merit system in Ulster County."

More CETA Funds

KINGSTON—Ulster County has received notification of the fact that $905,725 in federal funds to keep more than 200 people at work will be received.

An announcement from Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago said the Title II supplemental grants of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) were part of a $1.2 billion approved by Congress and signed by President Ford.

Robert C. "Josh" Randall, administrator of the county's Inter-governmental Management Office, said the purpose of the funding is to forestall layoffs of current CETA participants and to extend employment to the maximum number of participants until Jan. 31, 1977.

He emphasized that no new positions will be created. Since August, 1974 the county has received more than $1 million to maintain the CETA program, said Randall.

The jobs include a wide range, general labor to para-professional positions, currently held throughout the city and county with emphasis on areas with high rates of unemployment.

Hearing Is Reset On Water Release

ALBANY—A public hearing in Boiceville on water releases from New York City's reservoirs in the Catskill Mountains has been rescheduled for May 7.

The announcement came from Assemblyman G. Oliver Koppell, D-L-84th Dist., chairman of the Assembly Standing Committee on Environmental Conservation.

Hearing co-sponsors are: Maurice Hinchey D-101st Dist; chairman of the subcommittee on land use; Rolland Kedder, D-105th Dist., chairman of the subcommittee on wildlife; Jean Amatucci D-98th Dist., and James Tallon D-124th Dist.

The 8 p.m. hearing at the Bennett Middle School on Route 28 is sandwiched between two others scheduled for Binghamton May 6 and at the Sullivan County Office Building in Monticello May 8 at 10 a.m.

Testimony is solicited from government officials, local residents and all persons concerned with the downstream environmental and economic effects of the current water releases from the New York City reservoir system. Releases through the Shandaken Tunnel in Ulster County have been the subject of much concern in recent years.

IF YOU ARE OUT OF WORK AND HUNGRY EAT AN ENVIRONMENTALIST

Campaign bumper sticker makes Schermerhorn's views plain.

Foes Made Clear By Schermerhorn

NEWBURGH — Incumbent State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn, R-C-40th Dist., identified who the main figures are that he will campaign against — environmentalists and welfare recipients — in seeking his fourth State Senate term when he made his announcement of his candidacy Friday at the Ramada Inn in Newburgh.

The initial announcement was short and to-the-point, "I will seek the Republican and Conservative nominations for State Senator," said Schermerhorn. "I have been a Senator for six years and my plans do not extend beyond one more term in the Senate. Before June, 1977, I will have a more definite statement as to my political plans for the future. In the next two years in office, I plan to continue to be a watchdog in Albany, maintaining my belief in fiscal conservatism."

Pressed as to whether his future plans included the possibility of higher office, he had this answer, "Life needs changes and, in 1978, I'll seek something different. I'm not ruling out running again. Eight years is a fair test as a State Senator and I'll be going all over the state to see where my plans might fit."

He displayed the bumper sticker he designed and will use in his campaign. "IF YOU ARE OUT OF WORK AND HUNGRY—EAT AN ENVIRONMENTALIST," reads the red-white-and-blue banner.

The senator, whose main message is, "I want people to be working and bringing home a decent wage," made it clear he feels environmentalists stand in the way of jobs and reducing the unemployment rate.

Their concern over fish in the Hudson River stops utility plants, he said, and their fight to block the Stewart Airport runway extension is keeping a viable airfield inactive. "If they don't want Stewart here," suggested Schermerhorn, "they should plow it under and plant flowers."

Asked if as to whether he was in sympathy with the Town of Woodstock's refusal to pay welfare bills, the senator said he has a welfare reform package coming out in two weeks.

He also said, "Welfare has become a way of life. We slip into it from generation to generation. What should only be assistance has gone way beyond that. It needs reform. Where the Statue of Liberty is, we should have a banner telling them to come to New York for free food, shelter and clothing—and free skiing weekends. We are nothing more than a welfare state." He also called for "wiping out school lunches and football" from school budgets; said local governments "should repeal all sales tax at the state level."

Is he worried that those on welfare now number so many millions that they could "sway the vote" in the future? "They don't vote," he insisted. "They don't even take that responsibility."

There was one final swipe at the liberal establishment. Said Schermerhorn, "We give college kids grants, free tuition and food stamps and then they march against the establishment. Let's pull the establishment crutches out from under them."

Running for re-election again, the senator says he'll "either move up, down or out." In the meantime, he says, "We need to build bridges, highways, power stations and rail links."

VOTE FOR

THE SECOND NAME ON THE BALLOT

Weary Hopefuls Allowed No Rest

By UPI

The mere two days separating the Texas voting Saturday and four primaries Tuesday robbed most active candidates of their normal weekend rest.

Ronald Reagan headed for Indiana even before the vote totals showed he had blizzed President Ford — 96 delegates to none — in the Lone Star state.

Ford also mined for Hoosier votes to head off a potential triple-header Reagan win Tuesday in Alabama, Georgia and Indiana.

On the Democratic side, Jimmy Carter also stumped in Indiana although his only major opponent there, Henry Jackson, withdrew Saturday as an active campaigner.

Carter said he was surprised at the size of Reagan's win in Texas, and when asked which he would rather face in November, he said "Whoever one is chosen ... I feel sure the Democrats can win with me at the head of the ticket."

Ford flew to Ft. Wayne Sunday afternoon for two appearances and a television interview, and scheduled several appearances in Indianapolis Monday before flying on to Alabama.

At the airport, Ford was asked to respond once again to Reagan's charges that the current negotiations with Panama would lead to a "giveaway" of U.S. control over the canal.

In answer, Ford held up a transcript of remarks by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., during a Sunday television appearance (NBC-TV's Meet the Press), and quoted Goldwater as saying, "I have to support Ford's position on it and I think Reagan would too if he knew more about it."

Reagan is the favorite in Alabama and Georgia, while polls show Ford in front but Reagan gaining in Indiana.

The District of Columbia is the fourth primary Tuesday — the first, but not the last, multiprimary day of the election year. There are 16 slated for May, with six of them on the final Tuesday — May 26.

Morris Udall, criss-crossing Connecticut, continued to describe himself as the only viable alternative to Carter. He said he has a good chance, if his party will just avoid proclaiming a winner while the ballgame is only half over.

The Texas delegate selection got all the publicity over the weekend, but it wasn't the only delegate primary.

For the first time in history,

Louisiana Democrats went to the polls to choose convention delegates. The voting was so close that in some cases was not yet completed Sunday night.

Gov. Edward Edwards' slate of uncommitted delegates won 12 seats, Carter delegates won 10, and George Wallace won at least five, according to unofficial returns. Five other races were too close to call, but Edwards representatives led in three and Wallace delegates in two.

Meanwhile, California's 38-year old Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. arrived home late Sunday after campaigning in Maryland and North Carolina in a belated bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. He leaves the state again Monday to campaign in Nevada.

A Victory For Liddy

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)

— Convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy has won federal prisoners an expansion of their rights to get uncensored mail.

The former prosecutor argued his own case before U.S. District Judge Jon O. Newman, who moved Friday to grant most of the requests by Liddy, 45, serving up to 20 years on conspiracy charges stemming from the Watergate break-in.

The judge expanded the list of "privileged mail" at Danbury Federal Correctional Center to include letters from state court officials, prosecutors, state governors and foreign diplomatic officers.

Privileged letters must be opened in the presence of the inmate. In the past, only lawyer-client letters and those from Congress and the federal courts qualified as privileged.

Liddy is a former Dutchess County, assistant district attorney who is considered the mastermind of the Watergate break-in.

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Too late to help Henry Jackson and Fred Harris, the bill to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission and reopen the federal purse to money-hungry candidates may be enacted this week.

But potential delays plus additional roadblocks after the bill is passed mean the matching funds may not be available to help remaining candidates in time for much of this month's heavy schedule of 16 primaries.

Says Todd Statement Incomplete

KINGSTON — Mary E.

McMickle, secretary and board member of WHITA, has taken issue with part of a statement made by Kingston Board of Education President Ward Todd in the Sunday Freeman.

Mrs. McMickle said Todd failed to say that she would not give Todd the basis for WHITA's estimate of school construction costs because that is not her area of expertise. She said she referred Todd to WHITA member Walter Donnaruma as the expert in that field.

Both Harris and Jackson have quit campaigning since the funds were cut off, both citing lack of money as one reason, and George Wallace has cut back his campaign activities. Others have seen healthy campaign coffers dwindle into debt since the FEC stopped awarding matching funds by Supreme Court order in March.

Seven presidential candidates — all the major contenders except Ford, who still has a campaign balance — unsuccessfully asked the Supreme Court to release the estimated $2.4 million in FEC matching funds earmarked for them.

The House has set a vote this afternoon on the compromise campaign law reform bill approved last week by most major presidential candidates. The Senate is expected to take up the bill as soon as it passes the House, and it could reach Ford by Tuesday or Wednesday.

The bill would reconstitute the FEC along lines required by the court, but it also would make other campaign law changes opposed by President Ford, who has hinted he may veto it.

Even if Ford does sign, he must still name the commissioners and they must be confirmed by the Senate and sworn in. All that could take another week. In addition, Thomas Curtis, the current FEC chairman, has said he may quit and Senate hearings on a replacement could delay restoration of the FEC another week.

Community Concert Support

For 45 years, the Community Concert Association has been bringing responsible for outstanding musical talent to the Kingston area. Because it is a non-profit organization, the association's sole interest is to offer the best musical talents from around the world. With names like the Young Americans, Monte Carlo Orchestra, Kingston's Marianna Christos and many others, the association has done its job. The organization's annual membership drive is scheduled from May 10-15 and those who love the sounds of outstanding music are invited to join. Socially, the association presents a chance, not only for the family to enjoy a musical experience together, but for children to appreciate good music. We give our unqualified support to the Community Concerts and hope the membership increases a hundred fold.

Freeman Readers Write

Klein Responds

Editor's note: The following letter was written by Louis M. Klein, minority leader of the Ulster County Legislature. A copy of the letter, sent to legislator Charles Scala, R-Dist. 3, was sent to the Daily Freeman.

April 22, 1976

Charles J. Scala Jr.
219 Washington Avenue
Saugerties, New York 12477

Dear Chuck:
Having read your latest news release in last week's Freeman, I wanted to respond without undue delay because of the earth-shattering importance of its content. First, I should like to thank you for the very definite compliment you paid me, by acknowledging to the general public your fear and concern over my continuing practice of exposing the heretofore unreported considerations, of general interest to the citizens of Ulster County, which confront the county legislature.

In this regard, I acknowledge your concerns, especially since you, perhaps more than any other member of the Ulster County Legislature, have every right to fear public awareness of your legislative contributions. Indeed, your well-deserved reputation within the legislature, I as one who constantly complains, but rarely contributes, is one which you would like to keep from the public at all costs.

In June of last year, you even went so far as to sponsor legislation which would prohibit the public from speaking at legislative meetings unless they secured Mr. Savago's permission 48 hours in advance of the meeting, and even then preventing them from speaking on any subject other than resolutions appearing on the agenda that evening. Was your reason for sponsoring this resolution your fear that the public might question you in the presence of the press?

Perhaps if the public enjoyed this right they might ask you how you could justify voting against the 1976 county budget and stating "I feel that additional cuts could have been made", in December of 1975, and then voting to spend more than $6,000 additional monies on the New Paltz pool which had already cost our taxpayers almost $300,000, only two months later. Perhaps they might have inquired how you could vote to spend better than $300,000 on a swimming pool for New Paltz, but vote against a County Youth Board which would bring better than $100,000 in aid to Ulster County for youth activities at minimal expense to the county. The public might ask you how you could vote against raises for county employees in February of 1975, yet vote for raises for department heads in February of 1976. The public might ask you how you could favor laying off better than 100 employees in November of last year at the same time cast the deciding vote against eliminating Mr. Cawein's unnecessary position, while assigning his function and staff to another less costly administrative source.

While there are so many other glaring and unexplained inconsistencies in your legislative record, suffice it to say that your fear of exposure will continue, as I have no intention whatever of changing my ways.

I therefore suggest that you walk the yellow line to determine your most expedient course of action. Surely, should you decide to resign from the committee, your absence will hardly be missed, if your contribution would parallel your legislative performance so far.

In the meantime, might I suggest that you perform your duties as chairman of the industrial development committee. Your failure to achieve any significant accomplishments as chairman of this most important committee, has done little to benefit Ulster County's floundering economy. Perhaps, you might consider resigning from that committee, as well, so that some long overdue relief might be afforded our citizens.

Yours, etc.
LOUIS M. KLEIN
Minority Leader
Ulster County Legislature

A Final Rebuttal

Dear Editor:

I felt a final rebuttal to the Candlewood Assoc. letter of April 2 (to quote another reader, "very nasty"), was required in defense of my wife's character and statements made in her letter of March 10.

I would like to make one point clear as some people "highly resent" her accusing everyone in the Candlewood Est. area: that she was quite explicit in mentioning area—meaning any neighbors involved in and around the Candlewood area with unchained dogs and / or involved in deer slayings. There appears to be a lot of assumption on someone's part when statements like this area is not deer inhabited. The name of the warden for the area is available at request, who urged a complaint to be issued and whom also stated if the dog is caught in the act is shot. If you find his statements "regrettable and highly repugnant," we're sorry as we don't make the laws; the Conservation Dept. does.

Another assumption was implied when mention of approaching you "directly about her concerns was in order." You didn't check far enough or you would have discovered that a "Candlewood" neighbor, owner of one responsible dog, was visited with no feeling of hostility. However, it would be unreasonable to expect numerous neighbors with unchained dogs also be visited.

A prominent and respected resident of Stone Ridge put it nicely, "if you like people, you keep your dogs at home." Although it can be appreciated, your love of your pets and their "regular visits to the vets," it's irrelevant. It gives no consideration to feces left on others' property and the fact we find it unwise to even leash our own pets because of the canine population. We have boarded animals in the past, and no one could have more love or patience with them. I personally witnessed one of these pets urinate on my child's riding toy while he stood by in disbelief. We have found, however, the apathetic attitude more irritating than the pets themselves.

We realize the truth hurts sometimes and if anything is "regrettable", it would be arriving in the neighborhood and trying to openly express without resentment, not just our feelings on the situation, but many surrounding neighbors' who feel the same. Come on people, talk to your other neighbors! I would like to note that I have lived in this same neighborhood 10 years previous before Candlewood was built and do resent the fact certain "agreements" are made amongst a small group without any concern for the rest of the neighborhood.

With a few exceptions, there has been an obvious lack of being made to feel welcome as "new" neighbors, which by a friendly visit, use to be the tradition. If these calls had been made it would have been mentioned for your better understanding of our viewpoint, the destructive and costly acts of vandalism imposed on us long before the identity of the owners of the property was known; namely, signs ripped down, hemlocks destroyed by motorbikes with a belligerent comeback "is that what they are," trees leveled by snowmobiles, and during construction, electric ripped out, bike tracks on fresh concrete and plugging of an air vent causing disposal problems. All this, after warnings from construction personnel. Also, we found it difficult to ask any questions of identity (to be sure responsible persons are approached) as in one incident - the first words and answer was "it's none of your damn business" from an immature adolescent. And recently, tampering with government property, namely the mailbox for personal solicitation of the Freeman containing views expressed in their editorial. Again, statements apply only to those few neighbors who revealed their identity with repeated attempts using their children. There has been little if any consideration for our private property. Seriously, these aren't the "conditions" you are asking neighbors to tolerate.

However, after all the infringements on our privacy and personal property, none of your children have been turned away when their visit was for a friendly cause, selling etc. This is understood and appreciated. As we have always tried to prevent our own children wandering, we have found it difficult to accept others doing so particularly when for destructive means.

If anyone feels any personal injustice has been committed towards them or there are any further accusations against my family, a personal visit is suggested instead of use of the news media for a personal problem involving a small group of people. That would be the mature and sensible way to "develop a harmonious relationship with all your neighbors." Our door has never been closed. If any further animosity remains between long-standing neighbors and an oldtimer of the neighborhood, it won't be because we haven't tried. So, when ready to pass judgment on our friendliness, remember the saying, Grant that I may not pass judgment on my neighbor 'till I've walked a mile in his moccasins.

CHARLIE GREENE

A Dose of Justice

WASHINGTON — "It is better," C. Wright Mills wrote, "to take one dime from each of 10 million people at the point of a corporation than $100,000 each from 10 banks at the point of a gun. It is also safer." The black sheet gang on the benches of the nation's courtrooms have generally ruled that it is too much trouble to stop big corporations from stealing nickels and dimes from large hordes of small customers.

Manufacturers who collude to rig prices against their wholesalers have occasionally found that they have to pay the treble damages prescribed for such behavior under the Clayton Act. Judges are most likely to be just when having to settle a quarrel between two corporations. But if a bunch of bakeries conspire to fix prices so that they can get a dime more per loaf from retail customers, the courts have generally ruled that the victims of this kind of theft can't get their money back, much less treble damages. The reason the judges proffer is that such cases are "unmanageable." If you steal from the rich you'll be punished, if you steal from the working people, you won't.

Yet not every man or woman in a black sheet is lazy, alcoholic, ignorant or biased. Even with the most careful screening procedures a good judge slips onto the bench now and then, and that explains the presence of Federal Judge Miles W. Lord who supervised the repayment of almost $40 million to 885,000 people who, it was alleged, were overcharged by six drug companies for broad spectrum antibiotics. There has never been a case like it and may never be again since Judge Lord's conduct leaves him vulnerable to removal on the grounds of gross competence and excessive fairness.

In keeping with its tradition of interminable futility, the Federal Trade Commission opened this case in 1953 with an inquiry into the antibiotics industry. Five years later it had gotten its act sufficiently together to accuse a number of drug companies of a variety of anti-competitive naughtinesses. By 1961 an FTC hearing examiner exonerated the defendants.

Ever mindful of the passage of time, two full years later the commission overruled its hearing examiner, deciding that some of the companies had played fast and loose with the Patent Office and that five of them had conspired to fix the price of the antibiotic tetracycline. Time marches on. In 1966 a Federal court of appeals, in its turn, throws out the commission's decision. Back to another commission hearing and then back to court again with the final result in 1968 that two of the companies involved would have to share their patents with others.

In 1959 the Senate investigated the matter, and for all we know they're still at it. Two years later the Justice Department joined in the fun by bringing criminal action charging Pfizer, Cyanamid and Bristol with conspiracy to fix prices by misleading the Patent Office. Squibb and Upjohn were unindicted co-conspirators. Acting with dispatch, Justice took case to trial a mere five years later, and the defendant corporations were found guilty on all counts. Don't rejoice. Four years after that the convictions were reversed, and three years after that in 1973, or 20 years after the investigation was started, all were re-tried, found not guilty on all counts and dismissed.

Meanwhile, more than 100 civil suits were piling up in the courts. Everybody was suing, states, retailers, individuals, wholesalers. At length the companies offered to settle the mess for $100 million. Practically everybody accepted but California, Kansas, Hawaii, Oregon, Utah and Washington. The $15 million they would have gotten under the settlement didn't seem to be enough for them.

They filed a class-action suit on behalf of themselves, as institutional purchasers of these drugs, and their citizens. Under the rules of the Federal court system, which are designed to make class-action suits as difficult as possible, the states had to send a letter informing every household within their boundaries of the suit. A quarter of a million documents had to be subpoenaed and studied. Twenty-thousand pages of previous testimony had to be gone over, but when it became certain that Judge Lord wasn't kidding, that he wasn't going to dismiss the suit on the grounds that it was too difficult, the defendants offered to settle for just short of $40 million.

Now, under the supervision of Judge Lord, Operation MoneyBack began. The court intended to see that everyone who was allegedly overcharged - the companies haven't confessed guilt to this day - would actually have their dough returned.

To do this a computer company was hired, along with an advertising agency, accountants, market researchers and various consultants. A system had to be worked out to solicit, validate and pay hundreds of thousands of claims. To do this, millions were notified by mail that they might have a claim, TV, radio and newspapers donated their facilities to explain what these peculiar letters were about, and by the time Operation MoneyBack was finished nearly 900,000 people had indeed gotten their money back. The total cost of the distribution barely exceeded the interest the money earned while Operation MoneyBack was being designed and executed.

Most judges wouldn't permit such a massive act of justice to take place in their courtrooms, but the case does illustrate how civil suits might do what Justice Department, Trade Commission and Congress couldn't. It isn't going to happen, though. Judge Lord can't hear all the cases.

The King Was Mad, By George

John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock dared to address him at all.

Thirteen colonies with neither army nor navy - 2,500,000 ignorant upstarts - must be taught a lesson. George was told that the British Navy would seal American ports; a few regiments of Redcoats would burn a few towns and villages, and the protests would cease.

Within six years, the mightiest nation lost a war to the weakest. The king began to have headaches. "I shall never rest my head on my last pillow in peace and quiet," he moaned, "as long as I remember the loss of my American colonies."

He loved music; but his ears could no longer bear strings and flutes in the palace. His Majesty couldn't endure his mother whispering, "Be a king, George." He became a compulsive talker. He even talked in his sleep.

A Promise on 'Pot'

WASHINGTON—Jack Ford has promised the pot lobby that his father will support decriminalization of marijuana just as soon as more states eliminate the criminal penalties.

"Don't worry, Dad's a pretty cool guy. Give him some time," said the President's son.

He explained his father's leniency toward pot smoking to Dave Samber, an official of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), at a private meeting in March at Chicago's Tremont Hotel.

On the other hand, President Ford favors mandatory prison sentences and preventative detention for hard-drug traffickers.

But the President doesn't believe people should be sent to prison for personal use of marijuana. He wants more states "to take the initiative," in dropping criminal penalties, however, before he will openly support decriminalization, Jack Ford confided.

A White House spokesman told us the President is still opposed to decriminalization but has "an open mind" on the subject. Last fall, he called for less emphasis on enforcing the law against marijuana users.

Government studies show that it costs about $1,400 to prosecute a pot smoker whether he's sent to jail or not. Last year more than 400,000 people were arrested for personal use of marijuana, at a cost to the taxpayers of about $600 million.

But because marijuana reform is still a controversial issue, few states are likely to decriminalize marijuana and the President isn't expected to make any pronouncement before the election. Only eight states have dropped criminal sanctions so far.

Footnote: As have an estimated 29 million of his fellow Americans, Jack Ford has sampled marijuana. There are an estimated 12 million regular marijuana users in America. Jack Ford said he favors decriminalization but believes the issue should be handled on a local instead of a national level. He denied, however, he promised Samber the President would support decriminalization as soon as more states eliminate criminal penalties.

SOLAR SLOWDOWN: Solar experts believe recent breakthroughs make workable solar energy possible in 10 years. Yet the government appears to be doing everything in its power to slow the development of solar energy.

A new breakthrough in photovoltaic technology converts the sun's rays directly into electricity. With a concerted effort, this photovoltaic development could provide cheap, practical sun power in 10 years, experts claim.

Under this system, solar power could be generated right in the homes and buildings that use it. This would reduce the need for the vast utility power grid network, with the tangle of electric lines that now crisscross America.

It is precisely for this reason, solar supporters suspect, that the government is downplaying solar research. The giant electric utilities have tremendous political influence.

The solar division of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) requested $300 million from the upcoming budget. The agency's top brass whittled this down to $257 million before even submitting it to the White House.

The President's budget office then attacked it with a meat cleaver, chopping solar research down to $160 million. This was coupled, according to our sources, with a gag order.

The agency has even refused to tell Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a solar sympathizer, how the original $300 million request would have been spent. Humphrey wants to restore part of the solar budget in hearings this week, but he can't even find out what research was cut.

In fact, one high ERDA official, Donald Beatty, has threatened to fire any employee who talks to Congress about solar energy.

In contrast, funds for developing nuclear energy continue to flow as freely as the Nile, despite growing evidence that safety and technology problems may make nuclear power unfeasible.

The powerful utilities, of course, are pushing nuclear power which they can distribute through their existing electric lines and sell to their customers for the customary guaranteed profit.

The President's top energy aide, Glen Schleede, is an avid advocate of nuclear power. His pet project, the development of "nuclear parks" around the nation, has already been funded for $10 million.

Schleede also has an ally in the budget office in the person of Hugh Loweth, who handles much of the energy budget. These back room operators, if they get their way, may slow development of solar power by an estimated 15 years.

Footnote: An ERDA spokesman denied that the agency had withheld any information from Congress. He said that the original $300 million request was "a wish" and that the agency never expected to get that kind of money for solar research. Beatty's outburst, he said, was simply a reaction to the "childish" bickering that was going on between ERDA and Capitol Hill staffers.

SHAPP SEQUEL: We exposed wide spread corruption last January in the administration of Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp. As an example of the corruption, we revealed that Shapp's Turnpike Chairman Edgallio "Gene" Cerilli would be indicted on federal kick-back charges.

The U.S. attorney in Pittsburgh, Blair Griffith, fired off a telegram to us, denying that Cerilli would be indicted. But we stuck to our guns.

Cerilli was indicted on March 25. The indictment was delayed two months, according to our sources, because of our expose. Shapp, meanwhile, has dropped out of the presidential race and has gone on the defensive about corruption in Pennsylvania.

Berry's World

He fought with Pitt the Younger over whether Irishmen should be allowed in Parliament. Between the ages of 22 and 73, the only asset George had was 15 children.

In 1810, the king became a flasher. He walked the cold corridors of the palace in a long coat, playing a flute, opening the coat to his nudity when ladies-in-waiting passed. It hurt him deeply that they didn't appear to be shocked.

He no longer shaved. His beak was red and bulbous At 74, George became blind, deaf and completely mad. His son, the Prince of Wales, was made Regent.

George lived until 1820. He was 83. Long before, his armies had surrendered to the cheeky colonists. In fact, King George received John Adams as the American ambassador to Great Britain.

George III and George Washington could not foresee it, but someday the two nations would become great allies in two wars.

And that's the way it was, folks, 200 years ago...

Secretary Kissinger Continues to Win Bipartisan Support

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in his eighth year as a key designer of American foreign policy, wins bipartisan support from the American people.

Despite the fact that Kissinger has been under heavy fire in recent months — and has, in fact, himself emerged as an issue in the presidential campaign — approval outweighs disapproval among Republicans and Democrats alike.

In the latest nationwide survey, 48 per cent approve of the way he is handling his duties as Secretary of State, 34 per cent disapprove and 18 per cent are undecided. These findings virtually match those recorded in a January survey which showed 48 per cent approving, 37 per cent disapproving and 15 per cent undecided. They do, however, represent a loss in public esteem for Kissinger since April 1975 when 56 per cent approved of the way he was handling his job.

Much of the debate over foreign policy in the present presidential campaign has centered on Kissinger, with sharp criticism coming from GOP contender Ronald Reagan.

It is interesting to note that nearly half Reagan's supporters (from a showdown test against Ford) disagree with their candidate and express approval of Kissinger's performance. Backers of President Ford, however, are 2-to-1 on the approval side.

Kissinger's Policy of Detente Under Fire

The results reported today were recorded prior to Kissinger's recent departure on a seven-nation tour of African countries, the purpose of which he described as helping Ford "devise a new approach to the problems of Africa."

In recent months,

Kissinger's policy of detente with Russia has come under sharp attack with critics maintaining this policy has enabled the Russians to gain an advantage from strategic arms limitations talks as well as obtain military superiority over the United States.

Kissinger has also been criticized for what is perceived to be his secretiveness and domination of the foreign policy-making process and for allegedly approving electronic surveillance.

Supporters applaud his efforts to end the cold war confrontation with Russia, to improve U.S. relations with Communist China, to work out a peaceful settlement in the Middle East and to limit the

Is It Tanks But No Tanks Now

An analyst for Radio Liberty, Nikolai Morozov, tells us that the Soviets no longer expect to see any progress in the SALT II talks before the U.S. election in November. Instead, Leonid Brezhnev and the Soviet military establishment are now eager to talk about mutual force reductions along the borders in Eastern Europe.

The Soviet proposition is, superficially considered, a magnanimous one. At the recent 25th Party Congress, Brezhnev said that he would agree to a reduction in the Soviet tank forces, which were once the pride and joy of the just deceased Defense Minister Andrei Grechko, provided the NATO nations would reciprocate by cutting back on nuclear warheads, Pershing missile launchers and Phantom jets. Since NATO has been worried about the huge preponderance of Soviet armor in the Warsaw Pact nations (the Russians have some 40,000 tanks), it would not be surprising to see Henry Kissinger snap at the bait.

If he does, he will be ignoring a significant change in Marshal Grechko's strategic and tactical thinking about tanks. In 1971, the Soviet Defense Minister described tanks as "the main striking power of the ground forces." But in Grechko's most recent writings the tank had been "demoted."

Knocked Out In Action

In 1975, Grechko drew certain conclusions from the Arab-Israeli war. He had noted that tanks had become extremely vulnerable to a concerted anti-tank defense effort; 2,200 tanks were lost to the two sides in the short fighting in the Sinai desert. The U.S. TOW anti-tank missiles, which are now operational in Europe, and the Soviet's own armor-piercing missiles, had been so effective that the deputy director of the London Institute of Strategic Studies, Brigadier K. Hunt, remarked that "the balance has swung against the tank, which has dominated the battlefield since World War II."

What this could mean is that, insofar as Eastern Europe is concerned, the 40,000 Soviet tanks might just as well be 40,000 white elephants. (They can still have their very effective use when turned over to Cuban mercenaries in Africa.)

So the Soviets, in proposing a tank cutback in exchange for a NATO willingness to reduce nuclear delivery systems and new types of Phantom jets, are in reality offering to trade nothing for something.

If Kissinger knows the time of day, he will say to Brezhnev, "Thanks, old boy, for your latest insult to our intelligence. But if you will destroy most of those 40,000 tanks before you can send them to Zambia and Mozambique and Angola for use against South West Africa and Rhodesia, we might make a deal."

On The Laser Beam

Speaking of the vulnerability of the tank, no defense expert in President Ford's White House or in Ronald Reagan's traveling brain trust seems to have drawn the relevant conclusion from a Drew Middleton story in the New York Times about the cheapness of manufacturing precision guided weapons that use laser beams or radio frequencies to "home" on their targets.

According to Middleton, such weapons can be mass-produced for as little as $1,000 each. Moreover, they can be handled by individual infantrymen who, with deadly accuracy, can knock out tanks or even airplanes costing hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Back in the 1930s, James Henle, then a leading New York publisher, wrote a speculative article for the New Republic complaining that the world could not be made safe for democracy until someone had invented a rifle that would stop a tank. If Drew Middleton is right, Henle's hopes can now be vindicated. If the Czechs, in the lamented "Prague Spring," had only had a few

$1,000 laser-guided anti-tank missiles, they could have knocked off Brezhnev's tanks at the Carpathian passes like so many flies.

Last year NATO offered to remove 1,000 of the 7,200 U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe along with 29,000 of 300,000 American troops and a few missile launchers provided the Soviets would withdraw 1,700 tanks and 68,000 men from the Warsaw Pact countries. The Soviets were cool to the offer. Now they would like to accept it.

But it isn't enough for our side: We can get a much better trade-off now that the Kremlin has digested the late Marshal Grechko's admission that the tank is no longer useful for anything but bush warfare on the civilized world's fringes.

THE COMMERCIAL BANKS WANT TO KILL THIS BILL. IF THEY WIN, YOU LOSE.

Commercial banks are opposed to this bill. They have a monopoly on checking accounts in this state and do not welcome competition. They particularly dislike the idea that savings banks will offer free checking accounts. To meet this competition, commercial banks will have to do

Bard Looks at Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a recent lecture here, Alistair Cooke, the distinguished British journalist, referred to William Shakespeare as "the greatest reporter we have had in English."

He said he meant this in the sense that a reporter, while "embracing no political party, supporting no faction," must try "to represent as fairly, yet as vividly, as possible the flux of argument and emotion of life around him."

Ah, so. To see whether the Immortal Bard still meets that standard, let's test him out on the 1976 presidential campaign.

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, would you favor us with your impression of this year's candidates? Pray begin with Jimmy Carter. How do you account for this stunning success thus far?

A. "He had the dialect and different skill, catching all passions in his craft of will."

GRAFFITI

LET'S KEEP THE TAX AND LET THE GOVERNMENT HAVE THE INCOME

The force of his own merit makes his way."

Q. What about the newcomers, Sen. Church and Gov. Brown?

A. "Too early seen unknown, and known too late."

Q. Is it too late for the other candidates to join forces and try to stop Carter?

A. "Two may keep counsel when the third's away. Friendly counsel cuts off many foes."

Q. Then you think Carter still might be vulnerable?

A. "They stumble that run fast. They that stand high have many blasts to shake them."

Q. Hubert Humphrey still declines to enter any primaries. Is there a chance he might be persuaded to lead a stop-Carter move at the convention?

A. "Bait the hook well; this fish will bite."

Q. What are Humphrey's main assets?

A. "A mint of phrases in his brain. Never tax'd for speech. Turn him to any cause of policy, the Gordian knot of it he will unloose."

Q. That's Hubert all right. It's being said there are too many primaries — that people are getting tired of the candidates traipsing like Gypsies from state to state.

A. "Men must endure their going hence, even as their coming hither."

Q. I'm afraid we don't have the space to discuss the rest of the candidates. Perhaps, in closing, you could sum up their prospects.

A. "A swan-like end, fading in music."

Q. Thank you, Mr. Shakespeare.

PDQ Bach...One-of-a-Kind Experience that Shouldn't Be Missed

By O. Lincoln Igou
KINGSTON—At 8 o'clock tonight in the Community Theatre, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present a concert which will feature Peter Schickele as guest artist. But how on earth does one review an evening with Professor Schickele, indisputably the greatest authority in the world on P.D.Q. Bach, "the last and best of Johann Sebastian's 21 children." What! You've never heard of this most unique of the Bach clan, nor of the professor-composer of such remarkable works as The Half Nelson Mass, The Passion According to Hoyle, and the Schleppe in Eb which is to be performed this evening by seven members of the orchestra. One will have opportunity also to hear that rare composition, Eine Kleine Nichtmusik by Professor Schickele who, by commission just last year, premiered with the Harvard University Band P.D.Q. Bach's Grand Serenade for an Awful Lot of Wind and Percussion.

An overflow audience attended last night's performance in Poughkeepsie, with every seat sold from a row of folding chairs added to the main floor to the last row of the balcony. Your reviewer phoned for tickets a week ago and was told apologetically that the best available pair of seats in the house was in the second row of the balcony, and literally against the end wall. If the response is at all similar tonight, those who don't already have tickets should get on the phone at once if he or she hopes to share in this great fun, for which one would have to travel to New York under any other circumstances.

Only one person that I encountered, though there must have been others, found the evening dull, boring and even stupid. Peter Schickele is no stupid fool any more than Harpo Marx was an untalented clown; but some people simply don't like the Marx Brothers, or Laurel and Hardy — or Spike Jones' music, if you remember him. Spike Jones had an extremely sensitive gift for putting the wrong note in the right place to create a delightful piece of musical back-firing. Or look at Mozart poking fun at village musicians in his Musical Joke; but the professor is dean of these musical funsters.

Schickele's humor is to be found on the surface, yet couched within a framework of scholarly musicianship for those who can keep up with him at that level. Herein would seem to lie much of the secret of his success, just as young and old alike can read and enjoy Don Quixote on quite different levels — and it doesn't make too much difference where on the scale one happens to be at the moment.

There are obvious interlacings of an endless chain of improbable thematic (or counter-thematic) fragments which, in just the first movement of the Schleppe, are found bits of Turkey in the Straw, Song of the Volga Boatmen, Dixie, Liszt, Wagner, Sousa, Beethoven, Handel, Dvorak, and on, and on, and on. But there are also subtleties of the "feel" of a minuet not being able to move forward, or eighteenth century melodic, harmonic, or even rhythmic figures taking unexpected sudden turns, the "play" on the trill with which classical cadenzas traditionally close, or the impudent successions of thematic fragments that reject each other in both musical evolution and in the orchestral colors employed.

Quite seriously, Peter Schickele has studied composition with Roy Harris and Vincent Persichetti, graduate graduated from Juilliard where he has also taught, and has had a Ford Foundation Composer-in-Residence grant. He has to his credit symphonic commissions from the St. Louis and Louisville orchestras, music for four feature films, and segments of Sesame Street. He was one of the composer-lyricists for Oh, Calcutta!, and has been composer, arranger-conductor for Joan Baez and other recording artists — a most imposing list. If you haven't been fortunate enough to have heard one of his New York performances, hopefully you own or have listened to one of his numerous recordings.

His oral discourses and comments are as loaded with the unexpected as is his music; and unless you are hopelessly, but really hopelessly down in the dumps, it should be great fun and a one-of-a-kind experience that definitely should not be missed. Even if you're the pompously serious type, you might be surprised, and if you're just tired enough to need only one little silly sound or phrase to set you off, you should have a hilarious time.

You might just possibly not want to go a second time since it was a bit long; nevertheless once is a must. The Poughkeepsie audience applauded long and loud, recalling the Professor for half a dozen curtain calls.

The Kleine Nichtmusik and the two P.D.Q. Bach concertos in which Schickele appeared as soloist (Gross Concerto for Diverse Flutes, and the Concerto for Piano vs. Orchestra) were directed by Leon Botstein, inaugurated last fall as president of Bard College. A tall, handsome figure, he has a long background of musical training and experience, peaked perhaps by his conducting of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the White Mountain Festival in the Summer of 1974. Mr. Botstein handled his assignment with ease, and it was apparent that he was very much at home on the podium.

A somewhat reduced orchestra but one quite adequate to meet the demands of the evening provided a reliable foil for Professor Schickele's antics. Never again, hopefully, will one see a horn player tumble from his chair, the concertmaster arguing with the piano soloist, or a violinist being "sent to the showers." In fact, the members of the orchestra seemed to be having as much fun as the audience, and that's saying quite a bit. It was a long way from J.S. Bach and the other B's of previous concerts, but it was a delightful way to conclude a season, and to leave almost everyone with a sense of enthusiasm in looking forward to the next fall's season which will open in September.

'You Can't Take It With You' at Coleman

KINGSTON—John A. Coleman High School's Class of 1976 will present the classic comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," On May 7, 8 and 9 at the Hurley Avenue school. Written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, the play has been adapted and directed by Vincent G. Voerg.

"You Can't Take It With You" is set in a very "untypical" home in the 1930s, a house where everyone can do as he pleases, with no questions asked. The plot, although humorous, is also meaningful, and promises to offer an evening of fun for all.

Curtain for each performance is at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be ordered by contacting the school.

WAITING FOR THEIR CUES are Jim Sottile (Mr. Kirby), Mary Jane Gaffken (Penny Sycamore), Chris Lukaszewski (Mrs. Kirby), Sue Weber (Gay Wellington), Janice Higgins (Alice Sycamore).

THE TRIO ON THE COUCH, Bob Stall, Mary Beth Houck, David Jones, give their undivided attention (for the moment) to Bill Knott.

Ignored Card-sender Wants Recognition

DEAR ABBY: Since January 1, 1974 I have sent 911 greeting cards—not counting Christmas and Easter cards. (I sent 3,455 of those.) I mean get-well, sympathy, birthday, graduation, wedding, anniversary and new baby cards.

I go through our local newspaper to be sure I haven't overlooked a birth, engagement, accident or death. I am on a limited income and can't afford to send presents, but I spend as much time shopping for appropriate cards as most people do in the selection of gifts.

My question: Aren't people supposed to acknowledge cards? Only 32 out of the 911 people I sent cards to bothered to let me know that they received them. I am listed in the telephone directory. Am I wrong to expect thanks?—IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: Well-bred people acknowledge cards with a telephone call, a note or a verbal "thank you"—should they see the giver before they have the opportunity to call or write. However, the giver who is motivated by genuine thoughtfulness will send the card and forget it.

To keep a ledger on "thanks receivable" suggests that the giver is unduly interested in placing the burden of gratitude on casual acquaintances. Still, the laziness and boorishness of those who fail to acknowledge a thoughtful gesture is inexcusable.

DEAR ABBY: I don't understand what you mean when you tell girls: "Save yourself for the man you marry."

How does a girl know WHICH man she's going to marry? I have gone with five different guys at different times, and I thought I was going to marry all of them, but I'm still single.

Will you please explain what you mean?—STILL SINGLE

DEAR SINGLE: I mean, "Save yourself for the man you marry—not the man you MAY marry."

DEAR ABBY: Saw the letter in your column from the lady complaining because the bachelor in the next apartment snored so loud he kept her awake nights.

I am a single lady looking for a nice single man. If the bachelor who snores is between 45 and 60, please send me his name and phone number because I'm lonesome, easy to get along with and very hard of hearing.—RITA IN RICHLANDS, VA.

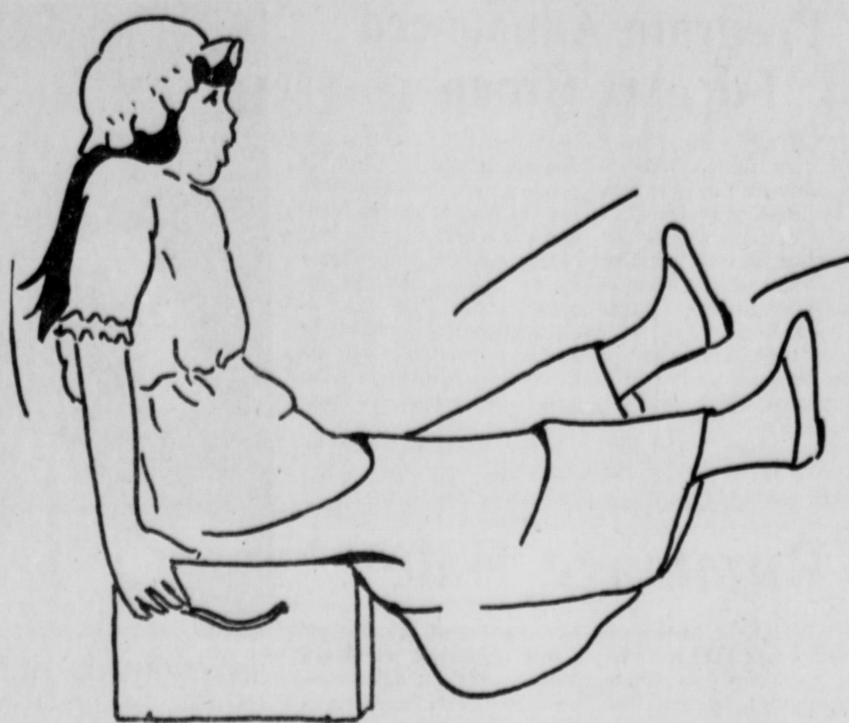

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.—RICHMOND HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26 cents) envelope.

Budget Meeting

WOODSTOCK—A meeting on the proposed budget is planned for May 6 at Woodstock Elementary School cafeteria beginning at 7:30 p.m. The meeting offers voters an opportunity to review the budget before the final vote later this month. All are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

"POWER IN THE WOODPILE"

Colonial Play at Zena School

WOODSTOCK—Tuesday, May 4 promises to be a busy night at Zena Elementary School in Woodstock.

At 7:30 p.m. Zena School Association will hold its final general meeting including election of 1976-77 officers.

Then, at 7:45, The Traveling Colonial Troupe, a group of youngsters ages eight through 15, will stage the play "Power in the Woodpile." Evolved from a study of the ideological origins of the Revolution, with a 1773 setting, the production was written and directed by Elizabeth Askue. Members of the talented group are recipients of a Kingston Trust Mini-grant.

Parents are urged to come early to vote in the Kingston City School Board elections which will also take place May 4 at Zena School, and bring their children to the entertaining Power in the Woodpile.

Woodstock Garden Club Receives Top State Award

WOODSTOCK—The Woodstock Garden Club has received, through the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, the top award in the state, the Civic Concern Award given by Sears Roebuck for 1976 throughout the U.S. This honor is the result of the Woodstock Garden Club's Environmental Improvement Project, "Millstream Point," on Route 375 and Millstream Road.

The concerted support and efforts of the Woodstock Town Board, Woodstock Chamber of Commerce and residents of Woodstock, with the Garden Club, made this an outstanding accomplishment.

The Woodstock Garden Club will hold its first meeting of the season Wednesday, May 5 at 1 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Woodstock Reformed Church. The program will be "Horticulture for Flower Shows," presented by Mrs. Ernest Lindroth, Mrs. Clyde Deavers and Mrs. Lamont Marvin.

Indonesian Officials Set for BPW Social

KINGSTON—Consul General Trihardjo of Indonesia, his assistant, Consul Odjahan Silalahi and members of their staff will be arriving in Kingston on Saturday, May 8 to participate in a gala Indonesian Night at The Colonnade (former Governor Clinton). Festivities will begin with a receiving line at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7.

The event is sponsored by the International Committee of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, an affiliate of the National and International Federation of BPW Clubs, Inc. Chairperson Dorothy A. Narel has confirmed the planned visit by the Indonesian officials, adding that the program will include Indonesian music, dancers, art and sculpture exhibit as well as Indonesian food. It will be a social, cultural and educational evening.

The public is invited to attend for it is BPW's purpose, through its International Committee and national association with the United Nations, to foster better understanding of all peoples throughout the world.

Tickets are available from Collette Sonnenberg, immediate past president; Jewells Cioni, incoming president; committee members Lorraine Shultis, assistant chairperson; Dolores O'Connell, Hilde M. DeNardo of West Hurley; Connie Weiss Goffredi of Woodstock; Beverly Reese, Carmela Carmody, Norma Smith and Ruth Kuriger of Kingston.

Those planning to attend are asked to wear the dress of other nations to make it a truly international gathering. However, dress for the occasion is optional.

THE ANNUAL SPRING DINNER DANCE sponsored by the Town of Saugerties Republican Club is set for May 15 at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties. Making final arrangements for the gala are Gene Davis, seated, club president; Mary McMickle, publicity chairperson; and Bruce Dederick, dinner dance chairman. Tickets are now available from Franklin Clum Jr.

MRS. BETTY KASPER, president of the Bennett PTA, presents a cash award to 4th grader Cynthia Leichte, grand prize winner in architecture contest.

Fourth Grader Earns Award In Architecture Contest

BOICEVILLE— During National Library Week, April 4-10, the Bennett Elementary School Library sponsored an architecture contest. Fourth, Fifth and sixth graders were invited to construct any kind of building, historical, present day, future or fantasy structure. Entire buildings, single rooms, models or drawings were eligible. Imaginative use of materials was encouraged.

The grand prize winning house was a stone and mortar house built by a fourth grader, Cynthia Leichte. She researched stone houses in Ulster County, read about them and visited some. She patterned her house after the Davis Tavern in Stone Ridge. Her house is quite authentic and beautifully crafted, with a paper shingle roof, stone chimney and plank floor.

Other winners were Lynn Olsen Greg Egolf; a joint feudal village project by: Matt Olkowski, Drue Lynch, Ben Komorek and Bob Brown; a joint tepee project by: Kim Calhoun and Roberta Smith; a special award for interior design to Cathy Willing and Carolyn Leonor.

Approximately 30 children participated in the contest and submitted a variety of dwellings, ranging from a slab board lean-to, complete with hill and trees, to an elaborate medieval feudal village with a castle, gate house, drawbridge, moat and peasant village.

The quality of the entries indicated students spent a great deal of time researching and building their projects.

The Bennett School PTA donated cash awards for each of the five winning groups. The students' buildings will be on display in Bennett School Library until May 15. The Olive Free Library will have the students' work on exhibit for the following six weeks.

Lead Roles Cast for '1776'

WAPPINGERS FALLS— Leonard Giaccone and Anthony Chase have been cast in lead roles in the upcoming County Players production of "1776," scheduled for May 7 and 8 at Wappingers Junior High School. Curtain is at 8:40 p.m.

Giaccone has both acted and directed for County Players, including major roles in "The Lion in Winter," "The King and I," "Brigadoon," and "Detective Story."

In "1776," Giaccone plays John Dickinson, a conservative legislator from Pennsylvania who pledges his support to America, though he refuses to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Anthony Chase is a senior at John Jay High School where he is president of the "Proscenium" drama club. Chase was a three-time County Players Awards nominee in 1975. He was a candidate for Best Supporting Actor in a drama for his performance in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." His performance in another John Jay production, "The Apple Tree," earned him the nomination of Best Supporting Actor in a musical. He was also nominated for Most Promising Male Talent. In "1776," Chase portrays young Tom Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, torn between allegiance to his country and his wife.

"1776" will be performed by a cast of 25 performers.

Program Announced For Art Group

KINGSTON— Final plans for the June trip to the Metropolitan Museum in New York will be discussed at the May 4 meeting of Ulster County Art Association. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Warren Russell, 60 Ringtop Road, Kingston. Reservations for the trip are required.

The program, geared to a Bicentennial theme, will include a film entitled "The American Vision." The film explains the success of the Hudson River School due to the interest in painting the American scene. Capable painters were developing here but the need to express their vision of America led the best of them to first study abroad for the training that was unavailable here. The film illustrates the developments in American painting from the European sophistication to the tradition of realism in America.

Vilma Ruchman may be contacted for details. Refreshments will be served.

Rummage Sale

KINGSTON— Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, is holding its spring rummage sale today and Tuesday. Hours are now to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 this evening; tomorrow 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Co-chairpersons are Rosalie Eckdich and Lee Salomon.

The Mother's Day general meeting is scheduled for May 12 at 8 p.m. in the social hall.

Florence Gossett has arranged a special program which will feature a talk and demonstration on flower arrangements by Mrs. Myrtle Brown. The centerpiece will be awarded after the program. A special Mother's Day dessert will be served.

Those planning to take the Donor Day trip on Wednesday, June 2 will see the production, "A Chorus Line."

Annual Fly-In At High Falls

HIGH FALLS— The High Falls Civic Association announces its annual Fly-In on Sunday, May 23, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Carleton Beach Field on Lucas Avenue in High Falls. This year's Fly-In will include kite flying, helium balloon launching, and radio controlled model airplane flying.

A special feature will be a presentation by Peter Rooney in his magnificent 75-foot, lighter-than-air balloon. This demonstration will include an explanation of the technique of balloon flying and afford the public an opportunity to observe the launching and flight of this unique aircraft.

Further information may be had from Bernie Spar of Rosendale.

Celts Took Half That Counted

By UPI

Bob McAdoo and the Buffalo Braves won the first half of their game Sunday with Boston, but Charlie Scott and the Celtics won the second half, the game and the NBA Eastern Conference semifinals. Buffalo led 55-50 at halftime, thanks to 19 points by McAdoo, the four-time NBA scoring champ. But McAdoo ran out of gas after the intermission and a fired-up Scott scored nine straight points midway through the fourth quarter as the Celtics won 104-100, eliminating the Braves four games to two.

Nets get jump on Nuggets, story on page 12.

In Sunday's other NBA game, the Golden State Warriors ran the Phoenix Suns into the ground as Rick Barry scored 38 points to give the defending league champions a 128-103 victory and a 1-0 lead in the Western Conference finals. It was the second time in three years that the Celtics had gotten past the Braves into the Eastern Conference playoff finals. The best-of-seven title series begins Tuesday night in Boston where the Celtics will go against the Central Division champion Cleveland Cavaliers.

Scott took over after Buffalo's Randy Smith, who was guarding him, picked up his fifth personal foul.

"That's the only way you can stop McAdoo," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn, "just wait till he gets tired from shooting. I thought Randy Smith, with the fouls, was big factor. He had to guard Charlie."

Buffalo enjoyed nine-point leads three times in the third quarter, but Jo Jo White's 11 points helped Boston cut the deficit to one, 78-77, after three quarters.

Baskets by White and Scott put Boston on top for good.

Scott finished with a game-high 31 points, White added 23 and Boston got 14 apiece from John Havlicek and Paul Silas. Don Nelson added 10 in a reserve roll as did Dave Cowens.

McAdoo led the Braves with 28 points, Smith had 24, Ernie DiGregorio 16 and Jim McMillan 12.

Golden State, not especially happy opening the conference finals only 40 hours after a grueling overtime victory over Detroit, practically blew the Suns off the court.

Barry hit a variety of drives and long jumpers for 26 points in the first half to give the Warriors a 58-48 halftime lead. The all-pro forward said he shot erratically in the Detroit series so he decided "to try and go to the basket more today."

"Phoenix doesn't have the shot blocker that Detroit had in Bob Lanier so if you can get inside on the Suns, you have a good chance to score," he said.

While his shooting was something to behold, Barry said, "Our early steals broke them out of their patterns and helped our fast break operate, too."

Phoenix committed 30 turnovers in the game and yielded 15 steals to Golden State. Barry had seven of those steals, seven rebounds and three assists.

"They probably thought they had us at an advantage because of our short rest," Barry said. "But we're the kind of team that responds to a demanding schedule."

The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played here Wednesday night with the third and fourth games switching to the Suns home court Friday and Sunday.

Rick Barry goes up for two.

May Didn't Get His No-Hitter and Yankees Didn't Win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Rudy May wasn't thinking about a no-hitter Sunday afternoon, not even after the New York Yankee left-hander had pitched eight innings without allowing the Kansas City Royals a hit.

"I really wasn't pulling for a no-hitter," said May. "I just kept hoping we'd get a couple more runs. That was the big thing. Maybe if we could have gotten two or three more runs, I could have thought about it. But the big thing was just winning."

May didn't get his no-hitter and the Yankees didn't win. Amos Otis ended May's bid with a double to lead off the bottom of the ninth inning.

Otis moved to third on a ground out and scored on John Mayberry's sacrifice fly to tie the score 1-1. Two innings later, Jim Wohlford scored on a fielder's choice to give the Royals a 2-1 victory.

May was relieved by Sparky Lyle after Otis' hit. May left the mound with an empty feeling. But not as empty as he felt when Wohlford slid home with the winning run for Kansas City in the 11th inning.

"I lost a no-hitter, so what?" said May. "We lost the game. What did we get out of it? Nothing. That hurts, man. Losing the game hurts more than losing the no-hitter."

Otis hit a curve ball for the double. "My curve ball is my best pitch," said May. "I've got to go with it. If I throw him a fastball and he hits it out, then I'm stupid. But if he hits my curve, at least I know he hit my best."

Otis said he was waiting for the curve. "I was looking for it on every pitch," said the Kansas City centerfielder.

"That's all he was throwing me.

"I got a lot of pleasure out of that hit. I hate to break up a man's no-hitter, but I like to beat Billy Martin (the New York manager). I don't like that man. How can you like a man who tells his pitchers to throw at hitters?"

Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers appears once again to be the "Mr. America" of 1974.

The muscular outfielder, who won the American League's Most Valuable Player Award at the age of 23 in 1974, experienced a "lost year" in 1975 when his batting average plummeted to a mere .26 points from .301 to .226.

"Winning the Most Valuable Player Award was the biggest thrill of my life," Burroughs explained during the winter. "I tried to live up to it. I got into the habit of over-swinging and I couldn't get out of it."

Burroughs, nicknamed "Mr. America" by his teammates in 1974, has levelled off his swing this season, reduced his strikeouts and still hits balls over the horizon because of his great strength. He's made eight hits in his last 10 at-bats, has a .308 batting average, has five homers and knocked in 14 runs, sparking the Rangers to their early-season two-game first place lead in the AL West.

Burroughs' three-run homer—each of his last three homers have been with two runners on base—snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning Sunday and lifted the Rangers to a 6-3 victory over the AL champion Boston Red Sox. It was the Rangers' fourth straight win over the Red Sox and they dealt Luis Tiant his first loss after three victories.

Gaylord Perry survived early troubles, retired 19 of the last 21 batters and wound up pitching a seven-hitter for the Rangers while striking out five and walking none. He has won three games and lost two this season.

The Red Sox took a 3-0 lead in the third inning on a solo homer by Dwight Evans and a two-run shot by Bernie Carbo. Tom Grievie homered in the fifth for the Rangers' first run and Mike Hargrove hit a two-run homer in the sixth to tie the score at 3-3.

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Oakland A's 4-3 after a 6-2 loss, and the California Angels topped the Cleveland Indians 5-4 after a 12-3 defeat in other AL games. Milwaukee at Minnesota and Detroit at Chicago were postponed because of inclement weather.

Orioles 2-4, A's 6-3
Billy Williams hit the 416th homer of his career and Joe Rudi also homered in the first game as Vida Blue pitched a seven-hitter for his second victory for the A's. Reggie Jack son drove in the tying run in his third plate appearance as an Oriole and Ken Singleton's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run for Baltimore in the sixth inning of the second game. Wayne Garland went 7 1/3 innings in relief of Mike Cuellar to win his first game of the season.

Indians 12-4, Angels 3-5
Rico Carty's two-run homer and a solo shot by Buddy Bell were the big blows of a 10-hit attack which carried the Indians to their first-game victory. Bobby Bonds drove in two runs in a three-run first inning and Jerry Remy drove in two runs to lead the Angels in the second game. Andy Hassler suffered his 14th straight loss over two seasons for the Angels in the first game.

Astros and Mets Prove Virdon Right

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manager Bill Virdon says as long as his Houston Astros can stay close to a team in the late innings, they'll win their share of games. First his Astros proved him right ... and then so did the New York Mets.

The teams split a doubleheader Sunday, with Houston taking the opener 5-4 and New York the nightcap 7-4. The second game victory enabled the Mets to stay atop the NL East by a half-game over Philadelphia.

"We've got some people in the lineup who can hit," said Virdon after second baseman Larry Milbourne poked an opposite field single in the ninth inning to score pinch runner Wilbur Howard and break a 4-4 tie and win the first game. "When we're hitting, we're scoring runs. As long as we can stay close late in the ball game, we'll win our share."

Milbourne, a switch-hitter, drove in a run with a single batting right-handed in a fourrun fifth inning off southpaw Mickey Lolich. Bob Apodaca relieved Lolich in that inning and allowed only one hit until the ninth when Greg Gross led off with a single.

Gross was replaced by pinch runner Wilbur Howard, who moved up on a sacrifice and went to third on a fly out before scoring on the single by Milbourne, this time batting left-handed against Apodaca, 21. J.R. Richard recorded his fourth win in five decisions for the Astros.

The Mets proved Virdon right in the second game when they jumped on three pitchers for four runs in the sixth inning to blow open a 1-1 game. No longer close, a Houston rally fell short by one in the eighth and Del Unser put the game out of reach with a two-run home run in the Mets' eighth.

Jerry Koosman struck out nine batters in 7 2/3 innings before giving way to Skip Lockwood following a two-run home run by pinch hitter Cliff Johnson. Koosman picked up his second victory in three decisions.

"Jerry is a good spring pitcher," New York Manager Joe Frazier said. "So why not take advantage of it? We might move him back to the bullpen when it gets warmer."

Although Randy Jones couldn't be happier in San Diego, he can't wait to get to New York.

Jones, ace of the San Diego Padres pitching staff, became the major leagues' top winner Sunday by stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 on six hits and just 85 pitches. It was Jones' fifth win in six decisions, but there's still at least one world the Padre southpaw knows he has yet to conquer—"The Big Apple."

"New York is where it's at," Jones said last year after being nosed out by the Mets' Tom Seaver for the National League Cy Young Award. "It's where reputations are made."

Someone was quick to point out to Jones Sunday that his next start will be in New York against the Mets.

"Outstanding," he said. "I can't wait to get there. I love that town. It's a great baseball city and I'd like to make up for the disappointing way I pitched there last year. I know that probably had a lot to do with my losing the Cy Young Award. I didn't impress the New York writers too much."

The Padres gave Jones all the run support he needed with a four-run sixth inning highlighted by Doug Rader's three-run homer. In that inning, Padres rookie outfielder Jerry Turner extended his hitting streak to eight games. Jones, meanwhile, walked none and struck out only one.

"I like things simple," Jones said. "Ground balls for outs. Not necessarily strikeouts. As for the Cy Young, I don't think I've got an edge. If you start thinking about numbers, it can drive you crazy. Last year it took me four times to win my 12th game."

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Los Angeles put away St. Louis 3-1, Philadelphia romped over Atlanta 8-2, Montreal downed Cincinnati 8-4, and Chicago swept a pair of extra inning 6-5 victories over San Francisco.

Dodgers 3, Cardinals 1

Pinch hitter Bill Buckner laid down a perfect bunt to score Steve Garvey with the go-ahead run in the seventh inning as Dodger southpaw Doug Rau won his fourth game without a loss. Garvey accounted for an insurance Los Angeles run with a solo homer in the eighth. Rau has now won 10 straight over two seasons.

Expos 8, Reds 4

Barry Foote banged out a bases-loaded single with two out in the 16th inning and Pepe Mangual followed with a two-run double to give the Expos their marathon win over Cincinnati. The Reds, who blew a 4-3 lead in the ninth, stranded 19 base runners.

Phillies 8, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt's two-run double off loser Andy Messersmith capped a four-run second inning and the Phillies scored four more in the ninth to complete their rout of Atlanta. It was the Phillies' seventh consecutive road victory and the Braves' seventh straight loss.

Cubs 6, 6, Giants 5, 5

Randy Hundley's pinch hit sacrifice fly with the bases loaded scored Dave Rosello with the winning Cubs' run in the 11th inning of the nightcap. In the opener, Jose Cardenal's sixth hit of the game, a single, scored Rosello from second with two out in the 14th. Cardenal was 7-for-9 in the doubleheader.

Mel Gets Some Experience

BOSTON (UPI) — Mel Bridgman picked up years of experience in a one-minute span Sunday night to give the Philadelphia Flyers the edge in their quest for a third straight Stanley Cup.

The rookie center's tally at 2:11 of the third period, just 60 seconds after he blew a shot at an open net, started a threegoal, third-period outburst that gave the Flyers a 5-2 win over the Boston Bruins and a 2-1 advantage in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The fourth game will be played Tuesday night at Boston Garden.

The Flyers had trailed 2-1 until Bill Barber's shot with 49 seconds left in the second period knotted the game and sent the Flyers into the lockerroom with the momentum in their favor.

About a minute into the final session, Bridgman—the No. 1 amateur taken in the draft last summer—took a pass from Gary Dornhoefer 25 feet to the left of Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert.

"But I panicked," said Bridgman. "I tried to shoot it to the short side. I tried to shoot it quick and missed the net. It was due to inexperience. It was more like a shot that I would have taken in October."

Bridgman was back on the ice a short time later when Larry Goodenough fired from the right point. He skated down the left lane and found the rebound right on his stick 10 feet from the goal with an open side staring back at him.

"I didn't get a good piece of that one either but I had the whole side to shoot for and the puck went in," said the 21-yearold from Trenton, Ont.

NHL scoring champion Reggie Leach, who has tallied in the last seven games, boosted the score to 4-2 less than five minutes later with his ninth playoff goal. Tom Bladon, on a two-on-one break with Bridgman, added the final goal.

Wayne Stephenson shut out Boston in the third period and made 26 saves overall for his second straight win.

Boston coach Don Cherry said Stephenson's goaltending and the three third-period goals were less crucial than Barber's tally late in the second period.

"We never should allow a goal in the last minute of a period," said Cherry. "Never, never, never—especially in a playoff game. It's inexcusable."

playoffs, having taken Chicago in four straight in the quarterfinals.

Ken Dryden, the league's Vezina Trophy winner with an NHL-best 2.03 goals-against average, has backstopped all seven Canadiens' victories. But he doesn't anticipate an easy entry into the finals.

"If we play the same way we did Saturday but get off to an earlier start we can win," said the 6-foot-4 goalie of Montreal's prospects on Tuesday. "But the Islanders are a better team than Chicago. Chicago at its best is not unlike the Islanders—they have a sound, dull but efficient style of play. But they're not as consistent."

"The Islanders are a very difficult team to play against. We've had a notable lack of success against them in the past two years."

But not in the past three games.

Fatigue Costs Chico, Isles

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Glenn Resch admitted he got a little tired Saturday night facing Montreal's barrage. That tiredness may have cost the Islanders any chance to recoup in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

"You have to give your best all the time," said the downcast rookie goaltender. "They just keep coming at you. They cover men well, they never let up. They're the best team I've ever played against."

Resch hadn't started a game for almost three weeks before opening to third game of the series against Montreal, but it didn't look that way for the first two periods. Resch was simply magnificent, rejecting shot after shot. Altogether, the 5-9 sparkplug made three super saves in the first period and nine in the second session, including five in a two minute span.

But the 20-day absence from the firing line—with the exception of a portion of the third period in the second game of this series—apparently caught up with Resch in the third period. Combined with the Islanders' inability to stop the Canadiens' relentless attack, Resch let in three goals in absorbing the loss.

"That might have been a sign of fatigue," he speculated. "I was a little tired in the third period."

"But I want to play in the next game. I'm not discouraged. We just have to change a few things—our forechecking and our breakout pattern."

Those changes will have to be effective. Montreal leads the best-of-seven series three games to none and can sweep into the final round with a victory here Tuesday night.

The Canadiens, the best team in the National Hockey League during the regular season, have not lost this year in the

Guthrie Is Established On USAC Racing Circuit

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Janet Guthrie moves onto Indianapolis today, confident she has turned the heads of some men drivers and established a name for herself in USAC championship racing.

Guthrie was 15th in Sunday's Trentonian 200 auto race. A broken gear box finished her on the 79th lap, but the 38-year-old former sports car champion may have carved another notch in her 13-year racing career.

Johnny Rutherford won the race when Gordan Johncock, leading by seven seconds going into the final lap, ran out of fuel.

Guthrie earned Rutherford's respect as a driver despite her rookie status and there were no dissenting remarks from those highly critical of her abilities before the race.

"I thought Janet drove a fine race," Rutherford said. "It's a shame she didn't have a better car."

Tom Sneva, who finished third behind Johncock in the 134-lap race, said Guthrie handled herself like a veteran. "She made a great effort to avoid an accident on turn three and spun sideways. She lost time, but did a fine job of recovering to get back in the race."

Guthrie was extremely excited about gaining USAC approval to take the rookie test and hopefully reach the qualifying stage for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

"I would be surprised if USAC turned me down for Indianapolis after my ride today," Guthrie said as she pressed a cool can of soda to her sweating forehead.

"I ran strong, while I ran. I felt good. I hope the other guys approved of my driving."

"The fourth gear disintegrated while I was under power. I had a third gear, but this made running very difficult. My pit crew advised me there was a hole in the casing."

"I must say, most of the drivers are really sportsmen. I'm just a rookie and here I am getting all the fuss. I'm delighted that one driver was wrong. He said I'd never last 40 laps."

Rutherford said he just happened to be in the right spot at the right time to win when Johncock dropped out.

"I thought the yellow had come on when I saw Gordie slow down. But then I saw him go to the pits, and I thought, 'Well, I'll be a son-of-a-gun.'"

Last year at Indianapolis, Rutherford was leading the race when his crew decided not to gamble on his running out of fuel and ordered him in for a fillup. While he pitted, Bobby Unser took the lead. A sudden downpour brought on a yellow caution light and Unser still had the lead when the heavy rain forced officials to halt the race.

Capri Team Sweeps In KBA Tourney

KINGSTON — Capri '400' completed a clean sweep Sunday as it repeated as handicap champions of the 1976 Kingston Bowling Association tournament and also won in the net division. Capri's three game team score was 2980, eleven pins better than Kingston Gold Classic. A three-game handicap of 279 put the leaders at 3159, six pins ahead of Lou's Cutting Corner.

Capri, which can only collect prize money in one division, thus took home the $600 handicap prize.

Ed Biro had a tournament high 243-192-236-671 to lead Capri. Others on the squad were Van Porter, 246-599, Don Hoffay, 213-566; Jerry Smith, 204-558, and Bill Hart, 216-564.

Kingston Gold Classic, led by Bob Shelghtner's 216-201-223-640, gained the net prize of $250. Ken LaCasse's 211-232-622 was another big gun in the KGC attack as it racked up scores of 913-1021-1035.

Lou's Cutting Corner, meanwhile, earned $300 by finishing second in the handicap division with a 3153. It was followed by Boyle's AC (3056, $200), Lane Masters (3047, $150), Five by Five (3042, $100), Five Axes (3033, $90), B & B Ceramics (3030, $75), White's Dairy Bar No. 1 (3029, $60), The Winning Five (3023, $55), Rondout Savings Bank (3013, $50), The Fantastic Five (3010, $40), and Jo Al's Restaurant (3000, $30).

The Handlebar, with Jack Ferraro hitting 623, Dave Ferraro, 618, and Tony Spada 607, was second in the net race with 2913. That paid off $125.00. Third was Kingston Auto Supply with 2829 good for $65. Bob (Yall) Smith had a 634 and Steve Ferraro a 610 to head the effort.

Bruce Barents and Charlie Ingalsby won the net doubles title with a 1239, stopping the three-year stranglehold Jerry Woodvine and Bud Lowe had.

Jones Released

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox announced plans Sunday to release unconditionally starting left fielder Cleon Jones, a veteran free agent who earned a spot with the club in spring training.

The Sox purchased the contract of hot-hitting second baseman Hugh Yancy from Iowa of the American Association and called him up for Tuesday's game in Baltimore. A club spokesman said Jones would be placed on waivers today.

on the crown. The latter pair was second this time, falling by a 1239-1217 count. The difference in the payoff was $75 compared to $40.

Barents and Ingalsby scored 590 and 649 respectively.

Jim Rose and Bob Shelghtner were third with 1201 and won $20.

Ed Ebel and Charlie Cafaldo won the handicap doubles event with 1314 to earn $150. Their scores were 584 and 586 respectively, with handicaps of 60 and 84 pins.

Following them were Joe Hinchey and Rich Schoenfeld (1305, $75), Ron White and Vince Provenzano Jr. (1290, $50), Erwin Liu and Paul Marburger Jr. (1282, $45), Vic Nerone and Al DiDonna (1257, $43), Ron Knott and Joe Knott (1256, $40) Rich Thornton and Bruce Bollin (1253, $35), John Bedell and Bob Elliot (1252, $30), John Fassbender and Al Fassbender (1250, $25), Herb Krein and Bob Crane (1246, $20), Leighton Childs and Terry Seidat (1233, $15), and Ken Boughton and Bill Noreika (1232, $12).

Shelghtner took the net singles with a 653 to top LaCasse's 631. The prizes there were $50 and $30 respectively.

Other leaders were Mike Cashara (625, $20), John Cook 4 Jr. (617, $15), Frank Rittie (605, $12), and Norm Good (604).

Ken Decker used a 90 pin handicap on top of his 627 series for a 717 and the championship of that division. He earned $100 in the process. Behind him were Bob Nealis (714, $75), Lee Hotaling (704, $50), Dan Riozzi (692, $45), Carl Phillips (684, $40), Andy Collins (684, $35) and Leighton Childs (679, $25).

Also, Jack Corey and Karl Garger (tied at 675, $25); J Jim Uhl (665), Harold Lemister (663), and Tom DeMico, tied for $13, Al DiDonna (656) and Steve Longendyke (654) tied for $12.50; Rich Emerick (691), Bob Baker (649) and Rick Buck (648) tied for $12; Joe Fisher, John Schussler, and Erwin Liu at 645, tied for $11; Harold Schussler (643, $10); Bob Bradley (641, $9); Bob Kansas and Frank Deuire (640, tied for $7.50); and Jim Palmer (639, $6).

In the all-events it was Shelghtner earning the $50 prize with a 640 in five-man, 609 in doubles, and 653 in singles for a 1902 total. Jack Ferraro was second, 102 pins behind and defending champ Charlie Ingalsby was third with 1785. They picked up $30 and $10 respectively.

Bob Nealis Sr. was handicap champ with 553 in doubles, 621 in singles, and 544 five-man for 1718 plus 279 for 1997. First prize was $100.

Edwin Liu was second with 1927 for a $50 while Harold Schussler was third with 1911 for $35. Jack Corey had 1884 for $30; Billy Sickler, 1875 for $26, Karl Garger, 1861 for $22, Jerry Smith and Rich Ruck tied with 1860 for $17.50 each, and Al DiDonna and Ken Decker, 1851 each for $5.

All listed money winners are unofficial.

Chris Ends Winless Spell

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (UPI) — A relieved Chris Evert said her play on Kerry Melville Reid's frequent drop shots "saved" her in the finals of the Family Circle Women's Tennis Tournament, which she won, 6-2, 6-2.

"I won 15 or 20 points putting away her drop shots, Evert said. "I think she was impatient. If I were her, I would have hung in there a little more and waited for a better opening."

Reid said she had a lot of chances but Evert "played very tough on those points. She was very quick getting back on the drop shots."

Evert, who hadn't won a tournament in two months, won the first five games of the first set, while Reid's drop shots kept falling into the net. The Australian seemed to find her range and won the next two games but Evert came back to put the set away in the eighth game.

Wawarsing Takes Shoot

WAWARSING — The team from the host Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association Club captured the season's first Ulster County Circuit Shoot Sunday.

Wawarsing scored 234 out of 250 to edge Saugerties Fish and Game, which had 232, Walker Valley, 206, and the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, 169.

(46), Bob Foss Jr. (46) and John Madison (46).

Foss Sr. and Wayne Gilbert shared individual honors with a .960 percentage. Gilbert his 25 straight.

Rounding out the leader board were Bob Sperl with .947 and 25 straight; Tom Grossi, Roy Longendyke, and

Bob Foss Jr., each with .920, Longendyke with 29 straight;

Harold Depew with .915 and 25 straight; Sonny Saloto, with .907; and Guy Goldsmith, Fred Faerber, and Phil Moore, each with .900.

The trap shoot circuit picks up on May 16 at the Saugerties Fish and Game Club.

What makes the Volkswagen Rabbit a winner?
Just about everything.
No other car will give you the combination of economy, performance and interior roominess that you'll find in a Rabbit.

What about economy?
39 miles per gallon on the highway, 25 miles per gallon in the city.

These are the highly impressive EPA estimates of what the Rabbit got with standard transmission in the 1976 EPA tests.

(The mileage you get can vary, depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment, and the condition of your car.)

What about performance?
We didn't name it the Rabbit for nothing.

You're propelled from 0 to 50 in only 8.2 seconds.

At that range, a Datsun B-210 is 60% slower than our Rabbit!

Roominess?
As Road & Track put it: "Its space for passengers and luggage is remarkable." 87% of the space in the car is devoted to functional room. That means the Rabbit has as much head and leg room as some "mid-sized" cars.

Open the large Hatchback, put the rear seat down, and you have more luggage space than in the trunk of a Cadillac Fleetwood.

Economy.
Performance.
Roominess.
There's only one car that can give you the best of all three worlds.

One DI Claims Innocence
SAN DIEGO (UPI) — One drill instructor facing courtmartial on charges arising from the beating to death of a Marine recruit says he is innocent. The other isn't talking.

The two drill instructors, a platoon commander and a captain were ordered last week to face courts-martial on charges arising from the pugil stick beating of Pvt. Lynn E. McClure, 20, of Lufkin, Tex., last July.

Two other officers were awarded nonjudicial punishment in the incident. One of them says he may appeal.

None of the Marines who actually took part in the bouts against the 5-foot-6, 115-pound McClure were accused by military authorities.

McClure, who fell on his knees screaming, "God, make them stop" shortly before the beating ended, underwent emergency surgery for massive brain hemorrhaging and remained in a coma until he died March 13.

A military attorney representing Sgt. Henry T. Aguilar, 23, of Hanford, Calif., said his client is innocent of general court-martial charges of negligent homicide, aggravated assault and mistreatment of a recruit.

Maj. Gen. Kenneth Houghton, commanding general of the Marine Corps Depot, also announced a special courtmartial Wednesday for Staff Sgt. Henry C. Wallraff, 27, of St. Croix, Minn., McClure's platoon commander, and a general court-martial for Capt. C.V. Taylor, director of the special training branch.

Wallraff is charged with being derelict in failing to have a pugil stick bout supervised properly, and Taylor is accused of failure to obey a lawful order and a general order and being derelict in allowing "an inexperienced drill instructor to conduct pugil stick bouts."

Pugil stick fighting — a bayonet drill making use of padded wooden poles in place of rifles — was a regular part of recruit training.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Tuesday, May 4
Your birthday today: Think of your experience this year as a combination holiday and free-form school. You wind up where you don't plan going, doing things you haven't yet imagined; it's up to you whether or not these are advances. Material success takes hard work plus "luck" attracted by clarity of spirit. Today's natives are wanderers in symbol if not in fact, have a streak of philosophic humor.

Aries (March 21-April 19): New projects are "out." Charity and serenity begin at home with your attitude toward those you love. Nuances of meaning and feeling pervade discussions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Broaden your activity, but don't branch off into unfamiliar territory. Clear out anything that's lost its purpose. Add to household conveniences.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Latch on to all advantages that require no strenuous effort. Profit or loss depends on how well you figure, not what you do. Build up reserves.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Set up each detail of your design, not discussing long-range goals. People help if they don't have to supply much energy, drop out when they do.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Look back: you find you skipped some item necessary for a successful enterprise. In the midst of trouble-shooting, take a break for meditation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Material affairs cause concern, with no remedy in sight. Help friends, but don't bail them out of financial obligations. Optimism in business wins.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Riding on momentum of yesterday's start, exert yourself to maintain both quality and quantity. Resist temptations to switch. It's a good day for planting.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You spend more time seeking shortcuts than you save putting to use what you find. You unconsciously learn much about the subject in the process.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Where others own part of the venture, bide your time till you've plans of your own. Active management of what people do for you is essential.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organize matters well so no one can interfere. Definite routine is inevitable, but take time to prepare for the near future.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accept your inability to do anything drastic about personal situations at the moment. Take it easy, but turn out a reasonable amount of work.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Express yourself more emphatically at work and take pains to oppose casual departures from specifications. Romantic appeal, sentimental pursuits are favored.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

AWAY: (Q.) Leslie and I met at a picnic last summer. I quickly fell in love with her and thought she cared for me, too, because she was very friendly. Then she left for college. I wrote her and told her I loved her. She wrote back and told me not to be that way because she was going out with other guys and did not want to feel guilty. This hurt me.

Then other friends at college started telling me about things they had heard she did at parties. This gave me a sick feeling. But she has kept writing me warm letters and she is good to me when she is at home. I worry about her and ache when I think about her messing around. Maybe I should tell her goodbye, but I can't. Do you think I am worrying about nothing?—Lovesick in Louisiana

(A.) You have made two mistakes. You assumed Leslie loved you. And, from rumors and hearsay, you assume she is being free and easy.

By her deeds she seems to be telling you that she likes you and wants to be friends with you. But she has not yet promised you anything beyond that. Accept her friendship, if you can, and value it. It may grow. But don't try to make it happen overnight.

PARTING: (Q.) Gene and I have been going together for eight months and have been very happy. But now he is getting ready to move to Oregon. We have agreed to write, but I feel down all the time. I cry, and get in real bad moods and don't feel like doing anything. Please help me get over this. We are both 14.—Moody in Michigan

(A.) You don't want Gene to remember you as a crybaby who is always red-eyed with tears. So climb out of that dark canyon you're trying to hide in and SMILE. Smiling and talking cheerfully and positively will help you to FEEL positive, and to look and be your best for Gene during the last, important days.

Jim: "South finds himself in a very normal three-notrump contract and wants to get as many extra tricks as he can out of the club suit."

Oswald: "The correct play here is to lead toward dummy and stick in the ten spot. This play will cost him a trick if East holds a singleton club or jack and two small. It will gain a trick for him if West holds a small singleton club or four small clubs."

Jim: "Expressing things in percentages, he will score five club tricks 42 per cent of the time and all important four club tricks 96 per cent of the time. If he leads to the king and back to the ace he scores five tricks just 36 per cent of the time and four tricks just 86 per cent of the time."

Oswald: "A word of caution. If South held the ten of clubs instead of dummy his correct play would be to play the top clubs."

Fair Sunday For The Faire

By Jo Ann M. Cicale
STONE RIDGE — This weekend's Renaissance Faire activities continued and on Sunday everyone's spirits were brightereven the sun's.

After moving indoors on Saturday, it was back on the "faire" way on Sunday for more fun and games. Jack Lawson, the Faire Master led his joustiers, magicians, faire ladies and knights in an opening parade amid a large welcoming crowd. While Saturday's rain didn't exactly keep everyone away;

Sunday's shine indeed brought everyone out.

Merchants sold their wares; soothsayers spoke of the future, but of course they didn't have presidents in medieval times so there weren't any prophecies of this year's election.

The day continued bringing fine family fun; there were plays, minstrels, and even knights saving ladies fair.

All the festivities brought a hunger that King Arthur would have been proud of and there was plenty of good medieval food—roast suckling pig, ribs, chicken, cheese and bread along with ale and cider.

It was a success according to the many participants and attendants. One Ulster County resident put it this way, "where else can I bring my entire family for a great day of free fun?"

Yes, the fun was free and easy and again as Jack Lawson exclaimed, "time stopped this weekend in Ulster County."

NEW PALTZ—New Paltz police are investigating the death of a man found dead at 11 p.m. Saturday in a New Paltz motel.

Police said that the man has been identified as Harlow W. Snyder, 60, of Connelly. They said his death was apparently from natural causes and that no foul play is suspected.

A coroner's report is being awaited from the Kingston City Laboratory to determine the cause of death.

Search for Girl

Town of Ulster police are searching for a girl missing from her home since Friday.

Gail Mary Platzner, of the Lake Katrine Apartments, Lake Katrine, was last seen by her parents Friday after supper, when she left and failed to return. When last seen she was wearing blue dungaree pants, a light blue ski jacket and work boots.

She is described as being 5 feet three inches, 114, pounds, brown eyes, and long brown hair. Anyone with information concerning her whereabouts is asked to contact Chief Meyer Levy of the Town of Ulster police at 382-1111.

Glascos Fight

Saugerties town police arrested two Ellenville brothers

Sunday after a fight on Main Street, Glasco.

Allen Yerkes was charged with reckless endangerment and Mark Yerkes with first degree assault. Police said they allegedly made obscene gestures to a person on the street, got out of their car, and struck the unidentified victim with a car jack.

They were confined to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail each for a re-appearance in justice court Wednesday.

One Injured

Edwin Lamon, 18, of Box 610, Kerhonkson, was arrested Sunday evening after being injured in a motorcycle accident on Samsonville Road. Police said he lost control of his cycle and struck a mailbox. He was taken to the hospital by the Olive Rescue Squad and was reported in stable condition today.

DWI Charge

William Michaels, 28, of 432 Albany Avenue, was arrested Sunday night after his car struck a parked vehicle owned by Robert Dennison of 144 Henry Street, driving it into another parked car owned by Edmond Zollen of 143 Henry Street.

Michaels, who was not injured, was charged with driving while intoxicated and with failure to keep right.

Consumer Superagency Proposed by Carey

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has proposed the creation of a consumer superagency, armed with subpoena powers, to represent the people of New York State.

Carey unveiled a legislative package Saturday which would replace the current Consumer Protection Board, which does not have subpoena power, with a new Division of Consumer Advocacy.

The new agency would not have authority to regulate business or industry, but Carey said it would use its powers to present the consumer point of view in court proceedings and before other agencies.

The governor's package also included bills which would allow advertising of prescription drugs and eyeglasses and require service stations to post the octane ratings of gasoline prominently.

Other proposals would require stores to display their refund policies clearly and to print all notices regarding customers' rights to dispute billing errors in both Spanish and English.

Carey called the creation of the new consumer agency "an essential part of my program to streamline and democratize the government of New York State."

Treatment of Jews Protested at NYC Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators waving banners in support of Soviet Jews filled Dag Hammarskjold Plaza across from the United Nations Sunday.

Political and religious leaders decried Soviet treatment of Jews and the refusal of Russian officials to allow emigration of dissidents.

The noon rally, which was peaceful, was preceded by a series of pre-dawn explosions in midtown, which did minor damage and injured no one. The Jewish Armed Resistance Strike Force claimed credit for the bombings, calling them a retaliation for Soviet treatment of Jews.

The detonations shattered

windows at two midtown banks and a bookstore, slightly damaged a concrete wall outside the U.N. Library and jarred a sidewalk grating outside the national headquarters for the Communist party.

Because of the explosions, police beefed up security at the rally, which occurred without incident.

Margie Davis, associate director of the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry, said the blasts were not connected with the "Solidarity Sunday" rally.

A Look at Our World

NEW PALTZ — What makes for a successful Environmental Fair? The public in attendance should evince real interest in the exhibits and the exhibitors should feel the time and effort they contributed was definitely worthwhile.

"The Environmental Spirit of '76" fair, sponsored by the Ulster County Environmental Management Council and held Sunday in Elting Gymnasium on the State University College at New Paltz campus met both those tests. The public came and made apparent by comments and questions that it is indeed concerned with clean air and water and with recycling, solid waste and resource recovery matters. And the exhibitors found themselves answering pertinent questions they had never thought of themselves.

If the fair had a major message, it was that independent businessmen through their own initiative can accomplish much in the recycling effort. And local and area businessmen were there to demonstrate they are willing and able to expand recycling efforts here.

A paper recycling plant in Napanoch has unlimited capabilities; tires are recycled in large numbers in Saugerties; tons of glass per month can be recycled by a nearby Massachusetts firm if local residents set up a collection point.

These are all local endeavors aimed at solving local environmental and ecological problems and, at Sunday's fair, the emphasis was on using them as part of the solution to the need for resource recovery here.

There was emphasis, too, on an environmental science contest for area high school students. Taking first prize in the contest was Kingston High School student Russell Sachs with his display of the effects of acid rain on both fish and plant life. Second prize went to the New Paltz High School Earth Committee for a cooling tower exhibit on which six student members had combined their efforts.

Highly successful in the eyes of its sponsor, "The Environmental Spirit of '76" attracted a large number of people who were already interested in environmental concerns and a considerable number of others who were introduced to concern for the problems as a result of the fair, which enjoyed cooperation between governmental agencies and commissions, environmental institutions and civic organizations, students and business firms.

Hitting The Welfare Trail

KINGSTON — The purpose of the trip is to discuss welfare reform. And sitting down for the discussion in Albany Tuesday along with Governor Hugh Carey will be Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, Legislature majority leader Ernest J. Gardner and Commissioner Bernhardt Kramer of the county's Department of Social Services.

What will happen in Albany tomorrow is still a moot question. But Savago and Gardner, who jointly stated last week that "welfare reform has been at the top of our list of priorities for a long time," will push for what they consider "two significant resolutions dealing with much needed reform in welfare" at the next regular session of the County Legislature on May 13.

The first resolution Savago and Gardner will co-sponsor calls upon the state to establish at state expense, a centralized data processing facility for all forms of welfare. Suggest the co-sponsors, "Such a system will provide a management tool that will assist in the prevention of duplicate payments to vendors and/or recipients under any welfare category—Medicaid, Home Relief, Aid to Dependent Children and others."

The second Savago-Gardner resolution to be introduced on the legislative floor this month would provide, in their opinion, "a firm financial position regarding welfare expenditures. The resolution urges the State Legislature to freeze the county dollar contribution of social services programming by Ulster County at 1976 expenditure levels.

Explain Savago and Gardner, "Upon adoption of this resolution we will freeze our welfare expenditures to the actual amounts expended in 1976 when we adopt our 1977 budget—zero growth!"

And, say the co-sponsors, "The resolution also states that if the county is ordered by the courts to spend beyond our budget, that it will only be done by reducing or eliminating current optional services offered by the county."

The resolution also calls upon the State Legislature to act upon the reforms sent to them by Ulster and other counties in a 12-point plan forwarded to Albany last fall.

Savago and Gardner say they have put "massive efforts" into welfare reform, most of which have had disappointing results in the State Legislature.

Those efforts had also involved "enabling the county to take over the Home Relief program from the towns."

That proposal was not adopted, say Savago and Gardner, because a survey of the towns—regarding their own preference and wishes—drew mixed and inconclusive results. They note that some Ulster County towns wanted the take over, others opposed it and another wanted the take over but with restrictions.

Savago and Gardner, again in a joint statement, place most of the burden for lack of welfare reform on Governor Carey and the Democratic leadership of the State Assembly—and on New York City representatives.

"Unless New York City members of the Assembly Social Services Committee stop blocking efforts for significant welfare reform," insist Gardner and Savago, "they will have every county in New York State in default—and that's not far away!"

Now traveling the welfare route in earnest, the first stop for Savago and Gardner (and Kramer) will be in Albany with Governor Carey on Tuesday and back home with the County Legislature on May 13 to introduce their dual resolutions.

Hinchey: New TWay Interchange As Aid to Resorts, Agriculture

PLATTEKILL — A new Thruway interchange in the vicinity of Routes 44 and 55 in the Town of Plattekill has been proposed by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist. He is convinced that better access to the 559-mile super highway would reduce considerably the time and distance involved in delivering products to the market.

Citing southern Ulster County as the hub of the fruit growing industry in the mid-Hudson area, Hinchey said vehicles

now must leave the Thruway at Newburgh to travel to Plattekill and other southern Ulster County areas and are forced to use the local two-lane highway.

Appearing before the Plattekill Hotel and Restaurant Owners Association recently, Hinchey also pointed out that construction of the interchange would have the immediate effect of providing construction jobs at a time when many construction workers are unemployed.

Looking at long-range benefits to the area, the assemblyman said "many seasonal and year round vacation resorts are located in southern Ulster County. The new Thruway interchange would not only improve traveling conditions to the resort areas, but spur the growth of the vacation industry."

The proposed interchange would be located almost dead center between the Newburgh and New Paltz interchanges which are 17 miles apart. Hinchey also pointed out that the New York State Department of Transportation has scheduled a reconditioning and preservation project for Route 44-55 which will greatly improve that highway as a connection for the Thruway with the resort area.

McCullough and Feraca, who were commended for their investigative work by Police Chief Julius Glassman, interviewed some 30 people during the past week, including a number of suspects. They broke the case Sunday after interrogating DeGroat.

The third degree arson charge is based on the fact that the building was empty when the fire was set, but jeopardized the lives of other people. DeGroat was committed to the Ulster County Jail Sunday without bail pending today's arraignment.

The fire at Cafe Downtown, restaurant owned by Robert Johnson started in a third floor apartment, and damaged much of the building.

City Youth Arrested

KINGSTON — A 16-year-old city youth was scheduled for arraignment today on a third degree arson charge in connection with the April 23 fire that heavily damaged the Cafe Downtown on West Strand.

James DeGroat of 11 Broadway was arrested Sunday afternoon by Det. Lt. Charles McCullough and Det. Sgt. Joseph Feraca of the Kingston Police Department. He was also charged with second degree arson in connection with a Nov. 27, 1975 fire at 11 Broadway, and with five counts of third degree burglary in connection with break-ins at a 63 Broadway residence in November and December last year.

Boston's Archbishop Fears Assault

BOSTON — Cardinal Humberto Medeiros says he would not go into South Boston or Charlestown to speak out against racial unrest because he might be physically assaulted.

Medeiros, in a copyrighted interview in the Boston Sunday Herald Advertiser, said he did not fear for his own safety, but wanted to avoid the national headlines such violence would bring.

"I am not going to South Boston to speak, to exhort, as so many think I should," said Medeiros, the spiritual leader of two million Roman Catholics in eastern Massachusetts.

Renewed Violence Puts Lebanon in Turmoil

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Raging artillery and mortar battles that left more than 200 dead in a weekend of nonstop killing threw Lebanon into new chaos today and overshadowed the political battle to choose a new president.

The warfare broke out after parliament postponed until next Saturday an emergency meeting to elect a successor to President Suleiman Franjieh. Fighting quickly spread throughout Beirut, its suburbs and to the Mt. Lebanon district east of the capital.

Israeli Patrols on Troubled West Bank

JERUSALEM — Thousands of soldiers and green-bereted border police patrolled key West Bank towns today to prevent any new eruptions of violence during a planned Arab protest against Israeli occupation.

A clash between troops and Arab demonstrators in Nablus Saturday escalated tension in the troubled region, scene of violent anti-Israeli protests during the past three months.

Dr. K. Sees Opposition to Africa Policy

NAIROBI, Kenya — A senior U.S. official says American multinational companies probably will oppose parts of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's "new Africa policy," especially trade restrictions against Rhodesia.

The official, traveling aboard Kissinger's Boeing 707, also said the secretary felt deep concern over the weekend victory of former California Governor Ronald Reagan in the Texas primary.

Rhodesia Mobilizes Against Insurgents

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Rhodesia has begun calling up its civilian reserves, launching a massive military offensive to wipe out the escalating black guerrilla insurgency.

The reservists — both black and white — started putting on their uniforms Sunday in a mobilization that could swell Rhodesia's field forces to 35,000 troops and police, an elevenfold increase over the current 5,000 man army.

Southern Bus Strike New Labor Woe

ATLANTA, Ga. — Labor disputes have halted Continental Trailways buses serving all or part of nine Southern states, the United Parcel Service in 13 Midwest states, the Big Four tiremakers and some of San Francisco's city services.

No progress was reported Sunday in strikes by nurses at a Willimantic, Conn., hospital, beer bottlers at Anheuser Busch Co., workers at a nuclear reactor on the Hanford Reservation in Washington or technicians and newswriters at the National Broadcasting Co.

No negotiations were scheduled toward ending a strike by 1,000 members of the Amalgamated Transit Union against five divisions of the nationwide Continental Trailways bus system. The walkout that began Saturday idled buses in eastern Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, and parts of Kentucky, Arkansas and Missouri.

'Fast Food' Diet Said Not So Bad

CHICAGO — The fast food fare of children — cheeseburgers, French-fries and milkshakes — may "stand up pretty well nutritionally," according to a report in the April issue of the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

The meal added up to about 4,100 calories, too high for inactive adults but only about 10 per cent higher than the intake for the average U.S. male adolescent.

Residents of the Shokan, Boiceville and Phoenicia areas may drop paper off at Singer-Denma in Boiceville on Saturday and Sunday until 3 p.m.

Tomcats Accident Prone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Navy's new F14 Tomcat fighter "is so plagued with problems that on any particular day only a quarter of the aircraft are fit for action."

"The Navy has spent $20.4 million for each of these planes, yet they are terribly unreliable," he said.

Quoting Navy Department data, he said problems with the Tomcat's TF30 jet engine, "have already been identified as the probable cause of six accidents." Aspin said a 7th Tomcat was shot down by one of its own missiles while undergoing tests.

UPTOWN KINGSTON

Gary Milewski of Trail Greenhouses assumes a tongue-in-cheek pose among leafy flora to publicize the plant and bake sale that will be held May 9 by the Rondout Valley Rod and

Gun Club for the benefit of the Kerhonkson Youth Commission.

RV Sportsmen Backing the Pool

KERHONKSON — The Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club is throwing its support behind efforts to insure that the Kerhonkson recreation pool as available for community youngsters this summer.

The Kerhonkson Youth Commission, which operates the pool, faces a shortage of funds that could prevent the pool from opening this season. A letter detailing the commission's plight was read at the April meeting of the rod and gun club.

Club members didn't waste much time in deciding to lend a helping hand. The organization will sponsor a plant and bake sale at the club grounds on Sunday, May 9 (Mother's Day) from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

All the proceeds from the plant and bake sale will be turned over to the Kerhonkson Youth Commission to assist in repairing and reopening the pool.

All community donations for the bake sale will be welcomed. Persons interested in donating foodstuffs should contact club members Fred Schwartz or Joe Cordaro.

The plants for the sale will be donated by Gary Milewski of "Trail Greenhouses."

Milewski is vice-president of the rod and gun club.

In addition to the plant and bake sale, the club will sponsor a Mother's Day dinner that Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at the clubhouse. The dinner will feature prime shell steak, baked potato, vegetables, rolls and butter, dessert and fruit punch, as well as free refreshments for the adults. Tickets for the dinner (a limited number are available) can be obtained at the Exxon Station in Kerhonkson, at Nick's Times Square Shell Station in Kerhonkson and at Trail Greenhouses.

Hearing Is Reset On Water Release

ALBANY—A public hearing in Boiceville on water releases from New York City's reservoirs in the Catskill Mountains has been rescheduled for May 7.

The 8 p.m. hearing at the Bennett Middle School on Route 28 is sandwiched between two others scheduled for Binghamton May 6 and at the Sullivan County Office Building in Monticello May 8 at 10 a.m.

The announcement came from Assemblyman G. Oliver Koppell, D-L-84th Dist., chairman of the Assembly Standing Committee on Environmental Conservation.

Testimony is solicited from government officials, local residents and all persons concerned with the downstream environmental and economic effects of the current water releases from the New York City reservoir system. Releases through the Shandaken Tunnel in Ulster County have been the subject of much concern in recent years.

Civil Service 'Concerns' Klein

ESOPUS — Acting on "a complaint from a constituent concerning the administration of civil service in Ulster County," says County Legislature Minority Leader Louis M. Klein, E-Dist. 6, he made inquiries to Victor S. Bahou, president of the New York State Civil Service Commission. Now, says Klein, he is "most concerned" with Bahou's response.

Klein quotes Bahou as saying his commission has "become increasingly concerned over the manner in which the merit system is administered in Ulster County." He also noted that Bahou had

"specifically cited three violations of the civil service law by Ulster County" and confirmed, as of this month, that "one violation continued to exist."

Klein also said Bahou advised him that, more than two months ago, the state staff offered to assist Ulster's civil service commission "in straightening out its problem," but their offer was "never accepted."

Klein charged that the administration of the merit system by Ulster County government has been "bent, stretched and manipulated"

in order for its rules "to meet the individual needs of political powers here." He suggested those rules "are meant to provide the best local government possible" and should be followed.

The minority leader said his criticism should not be construed to reflect on James E. Martin, newly appointed executive secretary of the county's Civil Service Commission, who recently assumed that position and was not involved in any of the criticized practices.

Bahou's office in Albany, contacted by the Freeman, said the three violations referred to concerned two provisional case workers who were continued in employment and one provisional case worker who is still being continued in employment in violation of civil service law.

And, while Bahou had expressed "concern" over the administration of the merit system here, he had also noted that its administration "has" been growing more complicated and voluminous over the past decade."

Bahou said his commission "strongly urges that the county create a professional personnel technician in the civil service office to provide necessary staff assistance to adequately administer the civil service law."

The state staff's offer to assist Ulster in straightening out its problems "had not been accepted, apparently because county funding was required for training the technician suggested."

A recent analysis of Ulster County civil service has been conducted by the Albany staff and its report will be issued in the near future.

Klein says he's sure that this "Management Survey Report." When released, "will substantiate" both his and Bahou's "concern over the administration of the merit system in Ulster County."

More CETA Funds

KINGSTON—Ulster County has received notification of the fact that $905,725 in federal funds to keep more than 200 people at work will be received.

An announcement from Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago said the Title II supplemental grants of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) were part of a $1.2 billion approved by Congress and signed by President Ford. Robert C. "Josh" Randall, administrator of the county's Inter-governmental Management Office, said the purpose of the funding is to forestall layoffs of current CETA participants and to extend employment to the maximum number of participants until Jan. 31, 1977.

He emphasized that no new positions will be created. Since August, 1974 the county has received more than $1 million to maintain the CETA program, said Randall.

The jobs include a wide range, general labor to para-professional positions, currently held throughout the city and county with emphasis on areas with high rates of unemployment.

IF YOU ARE OUT OF WORK AND HUNGRY EAT AN ENVIRONMENTALIST

Campaign bumper sticker makes Schermerhorn's views plain.

Foes Made Clear By Schermerhorn

NEWBURGH — Incumbent State Sen Richard E Schermerhorn, R-C 40th Dist., identified who the main figures are that he will campaign against — environmentalists and welfare recipients — in seeking his fourth State Senate term when he made his announcement of his candidacy Friday at the Ramada Inn in Newburgh.

The initial announcement was short and to-the point, "I will seek the Republican and Conservative nominations for State Senator," said Schermerhorn. "I have been a Senator for six years and my plans do not extend beyond one more term in the Senate. Before June, 1977, I will have a more definite statement as to my political plans for the future. In the next two years in office, I plan to continue to be a watchdog in Albany, maintaining my belief in fiscal conservatism."

Pressed as to whether his future plans included the possibility of higher office, he had this answer, "Life needs changes and, in 1978, I'll seek something different. I'm not ruling out running again. Eight years is a fair test as a State Senator and I'll be going all over the state to see where my plans might fit."

He displayed the bumper sticker he designed and will use in his campaign "IF YOU ARE OUT OF WORK AND HUNGRY—EAT AN ENVIRONMENTALIST" reads the red white and blue banner.

The senator whose main message is, "I want people to be working and bringing home a decent wage" makes it clear he feels environmentalists stand in the way of jobs and reducing the unemployment rate.

Their concern over fish in the Hudson River stops utility plants, he said, and their fight to block the Stewart Airport runway extension is keeping a viable airfield inactive "If they don't want Stewart here," suggested Schermerhorn, "they should plow it under and plant flowers."

Asked if as to whether he was in sympathy with the Town of Woodstock's refusal to pay welfare bills, the senator said he has a welfare reform package coming out in two weeks.

He also said, "Welfare has become a way of life. We slip into it from generation to generation. What should only be assistance has gone way beyond that. It needs reform. Where the Statue of Liberty is, we should have a banner telling them to come to New York for free food, shelter and clothing—and free skiing weekends. We are nothing more than a welfare state." He also called for "wiping out school lunches and football" from school budgets, said local governments "should repeal all sales tax at the state level."

Is he worried that those on welfare now number so many millions that they could sway the vote? "They don't vote," he insisted. "They don't even take that responsibility."

There was one final swipe at the liberal establishment. Said Schermerhorn, "We give college kids grants, free tuition and food stamps and then they march against the establishment. Let's pull the establishment crutches out from under them."

Running for re election again, the senator says he'll "either move up, down or out." In the meantime, he says, "We need to build bridges, highways, power stations and rail links."

Weary Hopefuls Allowed No Rest

By UPI

The mere two days separating the Texas voting Saturday and four primaries Tuesday robbed most active candidates of their normal weekend rest. Ronald Reagan headed for Indiana even before the vote totals showed he had blitzed President Ford — 96 delegates to none — in the Lone Star state.

Ford also mined for Hoosier votes to head off a potential triple-header Reagan win Tuesday in Alabama, Georgia and Indiana.

On the Democratic side, Jimmy Carter also stumped in Indiana although his only major opponent there, Henry Jackson, withdrew Saturday as an active campaigner.

Carter said he was surprised at the size of Reagan's win in Texas, and when asked which he would rather face in November, he said "Whichever one is chosen ... I feel sure the Democrats can win with me at the head of the ticket."

Ford flew to Ft. Wayne Sunday afternoon for two appearances and a television interview, and scheduled several appearances in Indianapolis Monday before flying on to Alabama.

At the airport, Ford was asked to respond once again to Reagan's charges that the current negotiations with Panama would lead to a "giveaway" of U.S. control over the canal.

In answer, Ford held up a transcript of remarks by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., during a Sunday television appearance (NBC-TV's Meet the Press), and quoted Goldwater as saying, "I have to support Ford's position on it and I think Reagan would too if he knew more about it."

Reagan is the favorite in Alabama and Georgia, while polls show Ford in front but Reagan gaining in Indiana.

The District of Columbia is the fourth primary Tuesday — the first, but not the last, multiprimary day of the election year. There are 16 slated for May, with six of them on the final Tuesday — May 26.

Morris Udell, criss-crossing Connecticut, continued to describe himself as the only viable alternative to Carter. He said he has a good chance, if his party will just avoid proclaiming a winner while the ballgame is only half over.

The Texas delegate selection got all the publicity over the weekend, but it wasn't the only delegate primary.

For the first time in history,

Louisiana Democrats went to the polls to choose convention delegates. The voting was so close that in some cases was not yet completed Sunday night.

Gov. Edward Edwards' slate of uncommitted delegates won 12 seats, Carter delegates won 10, and George Wallace won at least five, according to unofficial returns. Five other races were too close to call, but Edwards representatives led in three and Wallace delegates in two.

Meanwhile, California's 38-year old Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. arrived home late Sunday after campaigning in Maryland and North Carolina in a belated bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. He leaves the state again Monday to campaign in Nevada.

A Victory For Liddy

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy has won federal prisoners an expansion of their rights to get uncensored mail.

The former prosecutor argued his own case before U.S. District Judge Jon O. Newman, who moved Friday to grant most of the requests by Liddy, 45, serving up to 20 years on conspiracy charges stemming from the Watergate break-in.

The judge expanded the list of "privileged mail" at Danbury Federal Correctional Center to include letters from state court officials, prosecutors, state governors and foreign diplomatic officers.

Privileged letters must be opened in the presence of the inmate. In the past, only lawyer-client letters and those from Congress and the federal courts qualified as privileged.

Liddy is a former Dutchess County, assistant district attorney who is considered the mastermind of the Watergate break-in.

Federal Campaign Wallet Opening Too Late for Some

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Too late to help Henry Jackson and Fred Harris, the bill to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission and reopen the federal purse to money-hungry candidates may be enacted this week.

But potential delays plus additional roadblocks after the bill is passed mean the matching funds may not be available to help remaining candidates in time for much of this month's heavy schedule of 16 primaries.

Says Todd Statement Incomplete

KINGSTON — Mary E. McMickle, secretary and board member of WHITA, has taken issue with part of a statement made by Kingston Board of Education President Ward Todd in the Sunday Freeman.

Mrs. McMickle said Todd failed to say that she would not give Todd the basis for WHITA's estimate of school construction costs because that is not her area of expertise. She said she referred Todd to WHITA member Walter Donnaruma as the expert in that field.

Both Harris and Jackson have quit campaigning since the funds were cut off, both citing lack of money as one reason, and George Wallace has cut back his campaign activities. Others have seen healthy campaign coffers dwindle into debt since the FEC stopped awarding matching funds by Supreme Court order in March.

Seven presidential candidates — all the major contenders except Ford, who still has a campaign balance — unsuccessfully asked the Supreme Court to release the estimated $2.4 million in FEC matching funds earmarked for them.

The House has set a vote this afternoon on the compromise campaign law reform bill approved last week by most major presidential candidates. The Senate is expected to take up the bill as soon as it passes the House, and it could reach Ford by Tuesday or Wednesday.

The bill would reconstitute the FEC along lines required by the court, but it also would make other campaign law changes opposed by President Ford, who has hinted he may veto it.

Even if Ford does sign, he must still name the commissioners and they must be confirmed by the Senate and sworn in. All that could take another week. In addition, Thomas Curtis, the current FEC chairman, has said he may quit and Senate hearings on a replacement could delay restoration of the FEC another week.

Community Concert Support

For 45 years, the Community Concert Association has been bringing responsible for outstanding musical talent to the Kingston area.

- Because it is a non-profit organization, the association's sole interest is to offer the best musical talents from around the world.
- With names like the Young Americans, Monte Carlo Orchestra, Kingston's Marianna Christos and many others, the association has done its job.
- The organization's annual membership drive is scheduled from May 10-15 and those who love the sounds of outstanding music are invited to join.
- Socially, the association presents a chance, not only for the family to enjoy a musical experience together, but for children to appreciate good music.
- We give our unqualified support to the Community Concerts and hope the membership increases a hundred fold.

Klein Responds

Editor's note: The following letter was written by Louis M. Klein, minority leader of the Ulster County Legislature. A copy of the letter, sent to legislator Charles Scala, R-Dist. 3, was sent to the Daily Freeman.

April 22, 1976
Charles J. Scala Jr.

Saugerties, New York 12477
Dear Chuck:

Having read your latest news release in last week's Freeman, I wanted to respond without undue delay because of the earth-shattering importance of its content.

First, I should like to thank you for the very definite compliment you paid me, by acknowledging to the general public your fear and concern over my continuing practice of exposing the heretofore unreported considerations, of general interest to the citizens of Ulster County, which confront the county legislature.

In this regard, I acknowledge your concerns, especially since you, perhaps more than any other member of the Ulster County Legislature, have every right to fear public awareness of your legislative contributions. Indeed, your well-deserved reputation within the legislature, I as one who constantly complains, but rarely contributes, is one which you would like to keep from the public at all costs.

In June of last year, you even went so far as to sponsor legislation which would prohibit the public from speaking at legislative meetings unless they secured Mr. Savago's permission 48 hours in advance of the meeting, and even then preventing them from speaking on any subject other than resolutions appearing on the agenda that evening. Was your reason for sponsoring this resolution your fear that the public might question you in the presence of the press?

Perhaps if the public enjoyed this right they might ask you how you could justify voting against the 1976 county budget and stating "I feel that additional cuts could have been made", in December of 1975, and then voting to spend more than $6,000 additional monies on the New Paltz pool which had already cost our taxpayers almost $300,000, only two months later. Perhaps they might have inquired how you could vote to spend better than $300,000 on a swimming pool for New Paltz, but vote against a County Youth Board which would bring better than $100,000 in aid to Ulster County for youth activities at minimal expense to the county. The public might ask you how you could vote against raises for county employees in February of 1975, yet vote for raises for department heads in February of 1976. The public might ask you how you could favor laying off better than 100 employees in November of last year at the same time cast the deciding vote against eliminating Mr. Cawein's unnecessary position, while assigning his function and staff to another less costly administrative source.

While there are so many other glaring and unexplained inconsistencies in your legislative record, suffice it to say that your fear of exposure will continue, as I have no intention whatever of changing my ways.

I therefore suggest that you walk the yellow line to determine your most expedient course of action. Surely, should you decide to resign from the committee, your absence will hardly be missed, if your contribution would parallel your legislative performance so far.

In the meantime, might I suggest that you perform your duties as chairman of the industrial development committee. Your failure to achieve any significant accomplishments as chairman of this most important committee, has done little to benefit Ulster County's floundering economy. Perhaps, you might consider resigning from that committee, as well; so that some long overdue relief might be afforded our citizens.

Yours, etc.
LOUIS M. KLEIN
Minority Leader
Ulster County Legislature

A Final Rebuttal

Dear Editor:

I felt a final rebuttal to the Candlewood Assoc. letter of April 2 (to quote another reader, "very nasty"), was required in defense of my wife's character and statements made in her letter of March 10.

I would like to make one point clear as some people "highly resent" her accusing everyone in the Candlewood East area: that she was quite explicit in mentioning area—meaning any neighbors involved in and around the Candlewood area with unchained dogs and / or involved in deer slayings. There appears to be a lot of assumption on someone's part when statements like this area is not deer inhabited. The name of the warden for the area is available at request, who urged a complaint to be issued and whom also stated if the dog is caught in the act is shot. If you find his statements "regrettable and highly repugnant," we're sorry as we don't make the laws; the Conservation Dept. does.

Another assumption was implied when mention of approaching you "directly about her contents was in order." You didn't check far enough or you would have discovered that a "Candlewood" neighbor, owner of one responsible dog, was visited with no feeling of hostility. However, it would be unreasonable to expect numerous neighbors with unchained dogs also be visited.

A prominent and respected resident of Stone Ridge put it nicely, "if you like people, you keep your dogs at home." Although it can be appreciated, your love of your pets and their "regular visits to the vets," it's irrelevant. It gives no consideration to feces left on others' property and the fact we find it unwise to even leash our own pets because of the canine population. We have boarded animals in the past, and no one could have more love or patience with them. I personally witnessed one of these pets urinate on my child's riding toy while he stood by in disbelief. We have found, however, the apathetic attitude more irritating than the pets themselves.

We realize the truth hurts sometimes and if anything is "regrettable", it would be arriving in the neighborhood and trying to openly express without resentment, not just our feelings on the situation, but many surrounding neighbors who feel the same. Come on people, talk to your other neighbors! I would like to note that I have lived in this same neighborhood 10 years previous before Candlewood was built and do resent the fact certain "agreements" are made amongst a small group without any concern for the rest of the neighborhood.

With a few exceptions, there has been an obvious lack of being made to feel welcome as "new" neighbors, which by a friendly visit, use to be the tradition. If these calls had been made it would have been mentioned for your better understanding of our viewpoint, the destructive and costly acts of vandalism imposed on us long before the identity of the owners of the property was known; namely, signs ripped down, hemlocks destroyed by motorbikes with a belligerent comeback "is that what they are," trees leveled by snowmobiles, and during construction, electric ripped out, bike tracks on fresh concrete and plugging of an air vent causing disposal problems. All this, after warnings from construction personnel. Also, we found it difficult to ask any questions of identity (to be sure responsible persons are approached) as in one incident - the first words and answer was "it's none of your damn business" from an immature adolescent. And recently, tampering with government property, namely the mailbox for personal solicitation of the Freeman containing views expressed in their editorial. Again, statements apply only to those few neighbors who revealed their identity with repeated attempts using their children. There has been little if any consideration for our private property. Seriously, these aren't the "conditions" you are asking neighbors to tolerate.

However, after all the infringements on our privacy and personal property, none of your children have been turned away when their visit was for a friendly cause, selling etc. This is understood and appreciated. As we have always tried to prevent our own children wandering, we have found it difficult to accept others doing so particularly when for destructive means.

If anyone feels any personal injustice has been committed towards them or there are any further accusations against my family, a personal visit is suggested instead of use of the news media for a personal problem involving a small group of people. That would be the mature and sensible way to "develop a harmonious relationship with all your neighbors." Our door has never been closed. If any further animosity remains between long-standing neighbors and an oldtimer of the neighborhood, it won't be because we haven't tried. So, when ready to pass judgment on our friendliness, remember the saying, Grant that I may not pass judgment on my neighbor 'till I've walked a mile in his moccasins.

A Dose of Justice

WASHINGTON — "It is better," C. Wright Mills wrote, "to take one dime from each of 10 million people at the point of a corporation than $100,000 each from 10 banks at the point of a gun. It is also safer." The black sheet gang on the benches of the nation's courtrooms have generally ruled that it is too much trouble to stop big corporations from stealing nickels and dimes from large hordes of small customers.

Manufacturers who collude to rig prices against their wholesalers have occasionally found that they have to pay the treble damages prescribed for such behavior under the Clayton Act. Judges are most likely to be just when having to settle a quarrel between two corporations. But if a bunch of bakeries conspire to fix prices so that they can get a dime more per loaf from retail customers, the courts have generally ruled that the victims of this kind of theft can't get their money back, much less treble damages. The reason the judges proffer is that such cases are "unmanageable." If you steal from the rich you'll be punished, if you steal from the working people, you won't.

Yet not every man or woman in a black sheet is lazy, alcoholic, ignorant or biased. Even with the most careful screening procedures a good judge slips onto the bench now and then, and that explains the presence of Federal Judge Miles W. Lord who supervised the repayment of almost $40 million to 885,000 people who, it was alleged, were overcharged by six drug companies for broad spectrum antibiotics. There has never been a case like it and may never be again since Judge Lord's conduct leaves him vulnerable to removal on the grounds of gross competence and excessive fairness.

In keeping with its tradition of interminable futility, the Federal Trade Commission opened this case in 1953 with an inquiry into the antibiotics industry. Five years later it had gotten its act sufficiently together to accuse a number of drug companies of a variety of anti-competitive naughtinesses. By 1961 an FTC hearing examiner exonerated the defendants.

Ever mindful of the passage of time, two full years later the commission overruled its hearing examiner, deciding that some of the companies had played fast and loose with the Patent Office and that five of them had conspired to fix the price of the antibiotic tetracycline. Time marches on. In 1966 a Federal court of appeals, in its turn, throws out the commission's decision. Back to another commission hearing and then back to court again with the final result in 1968 that two of the companies involved would have to share their patents with others. In 1959 the Senate investigated the matter, and for all we know they're still at it. Two years later the Justice Department joined in the fun by bringing criminal action charging Pfizer, Cyanamid and Bristol with conspiracy to fix prices by misleading the Patent Office. Squibb and Upjohn were unindicted co-conspirators. Acting with dispatch, Justice took case to trial a mere five years later, and the defendant corporations were found guilty on all counts. Don't rejoice. Four years after that the convictions were reversed, and three years after that in 1973, or 20 years after the investigation was started, all were re-tried, found not guilty on all counts and dismissed.

Meanwhile, more than 100 civil suits were piling up in the courts. Everybody was suing, states, retailers, individuals, wholesalers. At length the companies offered to settle the mess for $100 million. Practically everybody accepted but California, Kansas, Hawaii, Oregon, Utah and Washington. The $15 million they would have gotten under the settlement didn't seem to be enough for them.

They filed a class-action suit on behalf of themselves, as institutional purchasers of these drugs, and their citizens. Under the rules of the Federal court system, which are designed to make class-action suits as difficult as possible, the states had to send a letter informing every household within their boundaries of the suit. A quarter of a million documents had to be subpoenaed and studied. Twenty-thousand pages of previous testimony had to be gone over, but when it became certain that Judge Lord wasn't kidding, that he wasn't going to dismiss the suit on the grounds that it was too difficult, the defendants offered to settle for just short of $40 million.

Now, under the supervision of Judge Lord, Operation MoneyBack began. The court intended to see that everyone who was allegedly overcharged - the companies haven't confessed guilt to this day - would actually have their dough returned.

To do this a computer company was hired, along with an advertising agency, accountants, market researchers and various consultants. A system had to be worked out to solicit, validate and pay hundreds of thousands of claims. To do this, millions were notified by mail that they might have a claim, TV, radio and newspapers donated their facilities to explain what these peculiar letters were about, and by the time Operation MoneyBack was finished nearly 900,000 people had indeed gotten their money back. The total cost of the distribution barely exceeded the interest the money earned while Operation MoneyBack was being designed and executed.

Most judges wouldn't permit such a massive act of justice to take place in their courtrooms, but the case does illustrate how civil suits might do what Justice Department, Trade Commission and Congress couldn't. It isn't going to happen, though. Judge Lord can't hear all the cases.

The King Was Mad, By George

John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock dared to address him at all.

Thirteen colonies with neither army nor navy - 2,500,000 ignorant upstarts - must be taught a lesson. George was told that the British Navy would seal American ports; a few regiments of Redcoats would burn a few towns and villages, and the protests would cease.

Within six years, the mightiest nation lost a war to the weakest. The king began to have headaches. "I shall never rest my head on a last pillow in peace and quiet," he moaned, "as long as I remember the loss of my American colonies."

He loved music; but his ears could no longer bear strings and flute in the palace. His Majesty couldn't endure his mother whispering, "Be a king, George." He became a compulsive talker. He even talked in his sleep.

A Promise on 'Pot'

WASHINGTON—Jack Ford has promised the pot lobby that his father will support decriminalization of marijuana just as soon as more states eliminate the criminal penalties.

"Don't worry, Dad's a pretty cool guy. Give him some time," said the President's son.

He explained his father's leniency toward pot smoking to Dave Samber, an official of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), at a private meeting in March at Chicago's Tremont Hotel.

On the other hand, President Ford favors mandatory prison sentences and preventative detention for hard-drug traffickers.

But the President doesn't believe people should be sent to prison for personal use of marijuana. He wants more states "to take the initiative," in dropping criminal penalties, however, before he will openly support decriminalization, Jack Ford confided.

A White House spokesman told us the President is still opposed to decriminalization but has "an open mind" on the subject. Last fall, he called for less emphasis on enforcing the law against marijuana users.

Government studies show that it costs about $1,400 to prosecute a pot smoker whether he's sent to jail or not. Last year more than 400,000 people were arrested for personal use of marijuana, at a cost to the taxpayers of about $600 million.

But because marijuana reform is still a controversial issue, few states are likely to decriminalize marijuana and the President isn't expected to make any pronouncement before the election. Only eight states have dropped criminal sanctions so far.

Footnote: As have an estimated 29 million of his fellow Americans, Jack Ford has sampled marijuana. There are an estimated 12 million regular marijuana users in America. Jack Ford said he favors decriminalization but believes the issue should be handled on a local instead of a national level. He denied, however, he promised Samber the President would support decriminalization as soon as more states eliminate criminal penalties.

SOLAR SLOWDOWN: Solar experts believe recent breakthroughs make workable solar energy possible in 10 years. Yet the government appears to be doing everything in its power to slow the development of solar energy.

A new breakthrough in photovoltaic technology converts the sun's rays directly into electricity. With a concerted effort, this photovoltaic development could provide cheap, practical sun power in 10 years, experts claim.

Under this system, solar power could be generated right in the homes and buildings that use it. This would reduce the need for the vast utility power grid network, with the tangle of electric lines that now crisscross America.

It is precisely for this reason, solar supporters suspect, that the government is downplaying solar research. The giant electric utilities have tremendous political influence.

The solar division of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) requested $300 million from the upcoming budget. The agency's top brass whittled this down to $257 million before even submitting it to the White House.

The President's budget office then attacked it with a meat cleaver, chopping solar research down to $160 million. This was coupled, according to our sources, with a gag order.

The agency has even refused to tell Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., a solar sympathizer, how the original $300 million request would have been spent. Humphrey wants to restore part of the solar budget in hearings this week, but he can't even find out what research was cut.

In fact, one high ERDA official, Donald Beatty, has threatened to fire any employee who talks to Congress about solar energy.

In contrast, funds for developing nuclear energy continue to flow as freely as the Nile, despite growing evidence that safety and technology problems may make nuclear power unfeasible.

The powerful utilities, of course, are pushing nuclear power which they can distribute through their existing electric lines and sell to their customers for the customary guaranteed profit.

The President's top energy aide, Glen Schlede, is an avid advocate of nuclear power. His pet project, the development of "nuclear parks" around the nation, has already been funded for $10 million.

Schlede also has an ally in the budget office in the person of Hugh Loweth, who handles much of the energy budget. These back room operators, if they get their way, may slow development of solar power by an estimated 15 years.

Footnote: An ERDA spokesman denied that the agency had withheld any information from Congress. He said that the original $300 million request was "a wish" and that the agency never expected to get that kind of money for solar research. Beatty's outburst, he said, was simply a reaction to the "childish" bickering that was going on between ERDA and Capitol Hill staffers.

SHAPP SEQUEL: We exposed wide spread corruption last January in the administration of Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp. As an example of the corruption, we revealed that Shapp's Turnpike Chairman Edgahio "Gene" Cerilli would be indicted on federal kick-back charges.

The U.S. attorney in Pittsburgh, Blair Griffith, fired off a telegram to us, denying that Cerilli would be indicted. But we stuck to our guns.

Cerilli was indicted on March 25. The indictment was delayed two months, according to our sources, because of our expose. Shapp, meanwhile, has dropped out of the presidential race and has gone on the defensive about corruption in Pennsylvania.

Secretary Kissinger Continues to Win Bipartisan Support

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in his eighth year as a key designer of American foreign policy, wins bipartisan support from the American people.

Despite the fact that Kissinger has been under heavy fire in recent months — and has, in fact, himself emerged as an issue in the presidential campaign — approval outweighs disapproval among Republicans and Democrats alike.

In the latest nationwide survey, 48 per cent approve of the way he is handling his duties as Secretary of State, 34 per cent disapprove and 18 per cent are undecided. These findings virtually match those recorded in a January survey which showed 48 per cent approving, 37 per cent disapproving and 15 per cent undecided. They do, however, represent a loss in public esteem for Kissinger since April 1975 when 56 per cent approved of the way he was handling his job.

Much of the debate over foreign policy in the present presidential campaign has centered on Kissinger, with sharp criticism coming from GOP contender Ronald Reagan.

It is interesting to note that nearly half Reagan's supporters (from a showdown test against Ford) disagree with their candidate and express approval of Kissinger's performance. Backers of President Ford, however, are 2-to-1 on the approval side.

Kissinger's Policy of Detente Under Fire

The results reported today were recorded prior to Kissinger's recent departure on a seven-nation tour of African countries, the purpose of which he described as helping Ford "devise a new approach to the problems of Africa."

In recent months,

Kissinger's policy of detente with Russia has come under sharp attack with critics maintaining this policy has enabled the Russians to gain an advantage from strategic arms limitations talks as well as obtain military superiority over the United States.

Kissinger has also been criticized for what is perceived to be his secretiveness and domination of the foreign policy-making process and for allegedly approving electronic surveillance.

Supporters applaud his efforts to end the cold war confrontation with Russia, to improve U.S. relations with Communist China, to work out a peaceful settlement in the Middle East and to limit the

Is It Tanks But No Tanks Now

An analyst for Radio Liberty, Nikolai Morozov, tells us that the Soviets no longer expect to see any progress in the SALT II talks before the U.S. election in November. Instead, Leonid Brezhnev and the Soviet military establishment are now eager to talk about mutual force reductions along the borders in Eastern Europe.

The Soviet proposition is, superficially considered, a magnanimous one. At the recent 25th Party Congress, Brezhnev said that he would agree to a reduction in the Soviet tank forces, which were once the pride and joy of the just deceased Defense Minister Andrei Grechko, provided the NATO nations would reciprocate by cutting back on nuclear warheads, Pershing missile launchers and Phantom jets. Since NATO has been worried about the huge preponderance of Soviet armor in the Warsaw Pact nations (the Russians have some 40,000 tanks), it would not be surprising to see Henry Kissinger snap at the bait.

If he does, he will be ignoring a significant change in Marshal Grechko's strategic and tactical thinking about tanks. In 1971, the Soviet Defense Minister described tanks as "the main striking power of the ground forces." But in Grechko's most recent writings the tank had been "demoted."

Knocked Out In Action

In 1975, Grechko drew certain conclusions from the Arab-Israeli war. He had noted that tanks had become extremely vulnerable to a concerted anti-tank defense effort; 2,200 tanks were lost to the two sides in the short fighting in the Sinai desert. The U.S. TOW anti-tank missiles, which are now operational in Europe, and the Soviet's own armor-piercing missiles, had been so effective that the deputy director of the London Institute of Strategic Studies, Brigadier K. Hunt, remarked that "the balance has swung against the tank, which has dominated the battlefield since World War II."

What this could mean is that, insofar as Eastern Europe is concerned, the 40,000 Soviet tanks might just as well be 40,000 white elephants. (They can still have their very effective use when turned over to Cuban mercenaries in Africa.)

So the Soviets, in proposing a tank cutback in exchange for a NATO willingness to reduce nuclear delivery systems and new types of Phantom jets, are in reality offering to trade nothing for something.

If Kissinger knows the time of day, he will say to Brezhnev, "Thanks, old boy, for your latest insult to our intelligence. But if you will destroy most of those 40,000 tanks before you can send them to Zambia and Mozambique and Angola for use against South West Africa and Rhodesia, we might make a deal."

On The Laser Beam

Speaking of the vulnerability of the tank, no defense expert in President Ford's White House or in Ronald Reagan's traveling brain trust seems to have drawn the relevant conclusion from a Drew Middleton story in the New York Times about the cheapness of manufacturing precision guided weapons that use laser beams or radio frequencies to "home" on their targets.

According to Middleton, such weapons can be mass-produced for as little as $1,000 each. Moreover, they can be handled by individual infantrymen who, with deadly accuracy, can knock out tanks or even airplanes costing hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Back in the 1930s, James Henle, then a leading New York publisher, wrote a speculative article for the New Republic complaining that the world could not be made safe for democracy until someone had invented a rifle that would stop a tank. If Drew Middleton is right, Henle's hopes can now be vindicated. If the Czechs, in the lamented "Prague Spring," had only had a few

$1,000 laser-guided anti-tank missiles, they could have knocked off Brezhnev's tanks at the Carpathian passes like so many flies.

Last year NATO offered to remove 1,000 of the 7,200 U.S. nuclear warheads in Europe along with 29,000 of 300,000 American troops and a few missile launchers provided the Soviets would withdraw 1,700 tanks and 68,000 men from the Warsaw Pact countries. The Soviets were cool to the offer. Now they would like to accept it.

But it isn't enough for our side: We can get a much better trade-off now: that the Kremlin has digested the late Marshal Grechko's admission that the tank is no longer useful for anything but bush warfare on the civilized world's fringes.

WHITA ENDORSES JACKSON & FERACA

FOR ELECTION TO KINGSTON SCHOOL DISTRICT

We urge you to vote for William Jackson and Joseph Feraca. We have endorsed them after careful study of all candidates. A school board which would build the Mulvin 3,000 seat high school would increase the school tax on your home $200 to $1,000 more per year. Jackson and Feraca have pledged to stop this terrible, crazy plan, which would force closing of neighborhood schools and saddle us with $25,000,000 of debt.

The Cincotta-Conklin Bill will make it possible for savings banks to offer checking accounts.

These checking accounts will be free.

This bill, now before the New York State Legislature, is clearly in the public interest.

THE COMMERCIAL BANKS WANT TO KILL THIS BILL. IF THEY WIN, YOU LOSE.

Commercial banks are opposed to this bill. They have a monopoly on checking accounts in this state and do not welcome competition. They particularly dislike the idea that savings banks will offer free checking accounts. To meet this competition, commercial banks will have to do the same thing or at least lower their charges.

If the commercial banks have this bill defeated or amended to death, it is the people who will lose. If you favor free checking accounts at savings banks write your State Senator or Assemblyman today.

Bard Looks at Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a recent lecture here, Alistair Cooke, the distinguished British journalist, referred to William Shakespeare as "the greatest reporter we have had in English."

He said he meant this in the sense that a reporter, while "embracing no political party, supporting no faction," must try "to represent as fairly, yet as vividly, as possible the flux of argument and emotion of life around him."

Ah, so. To see whether the Immortal Bard still meets that standard, let's test him out on the 1976 presidential campaign.

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, would you favor us with your impression of this year's candidates? Pray begin with Jimmy Carter. How do you account for this stunning success thus far?

A. "He had the dialect and different skill, catching all passions in his craft of will."

GRAFFITI

LET'S KEEP THE TAX AND LET THE GOVERNMENT HAVE THE INCOME

The force of his own merit makes his way."

Q. What about the newcomers, Sen. Church and Gov. Brown?

A. "Too early seen unknown, and known too late."

Q. Is it too late for the other candidates to join forces and try to stop Carter?

A. "Two may keep counsel when the third's away. Friendly counsel cuts off many foes."

Q. Then you think Carter still might be vulnerable?

A. "They stumble that run fast. They that stand high have many blasts to shake them."

Q. Hubert Humphrey still declines to enter any primaries. Is there a chance he might be persuaded to lead a stop-Carter move at the convention?

A. "Bait the hook well; this fish will bite."

Q. What are Humphrey's main assets?

A. "A mint of phrases in his brain. Never tax'd for speech. Turn him to any cause of policy, the Gordian knot of it he will unloose."

Q. That's Hubert all right. It's being said there are too many primaries — that people are getting tired of the candidates traipsing like Gypsies from state to state.

A. "Men must endure their going hence, even as their coming hither."

Q. I'm afraid we don't have the space to discuss the rest of the candidates. Perhaps, in closing, you could sum up their prospects.

A. "A swan-like end, fading in music."

Q. Thank you, Mr. Shakespeare.

By O. Lincoln Igou
KINGSTON—At 8 o'clock tonight in the Community Theatre, the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra will present a concert which will feature Peter Schickele as guest artist. But how on earth does one review an evening with Professor Schickele, indisputably the greatest authority in the world on P.D.Q. Bach, "the last and least of Johann Sebastian's 21 children." What! You've never heard of this most unique of the Bach clan, nor of the professor-composer of such remarkable works as The Half Nelson Mass, The Passion According to Hoyle, and the Schlegel in Eb which is to be performed this evening by seven members of the orchestra. One will have opportunity also to hear that rare composition, Eine Kleine Nichtmusik by Professor Schickele who, by commission just last year, premiered with the Harvard University Band P.D.Q. Bach's Grand Serenade for an Awful Lot of Wind and Percussion.

An overflow audience attended last night's performance in Poughkeepsie, with every seat sold from a row of folding chairs added to the main floor to the last row of the balcony. Your reviewer phoned for tickets a week ago and was told apologetically that the best available pair of seats in the house was in the second row of the balcony, and literally against the end wall. If the response is at all similar tonight, those who don't already have tickets should get on the phone at once if he or she hopes to share in this great fun, for which one would have to travel to New York under any other circumstances.

Only one person that I encountered, though there must have been others, found the evening dull, boring and even stupid. Peter Schickele is no stupid fool any more than Harpo Marx was an untalented clown; but some people simply don't like the Marx Brothers, or Laurel and Hardy — or Spike Jones' music, if you remember him. Spike Jones had an extremely sensitive gift for putting the wrong note in the right place to create a delightful piece of musical back-firing. Or look at Mozart poking fun at village musicians in his Musical Joke; but the professor is dean of these musical funsters.

Schickele's humor is to be found on the surface, yet couched within a framework of scholarly musicianship for those who can keep up with him at that level. Herein would seem to lie much of the secret of his success, just as young and old alike can read and enjoy Don Quixote on quite different levels — and it doesn't make too much difference where on the scale one happens to be at the moment.

There are obvious interlacings of an endless chain of improbable thematic (or counter-thematic) fragments which, in just the first movement of the Schlegel, are found bits of Turkey in the Straw, Song of the Volga Boatmen, Dixie, Liszt, Wagner, Sousa, Beethoven, Handel, Dvorak, and on, and on, and on. But there are also subtleties of the "feel" of a minuet not being able to move forward, or eighteenth century melodic, harmonic, or even rhythmic figures taking unexpected sudden turns, the "play" on the trill with which classical cadenzas traditionally close, or the impudent successions of thematic fragments that reject each other in both musical evolution and in the orchestral colors employed.

Quite seriously, Peter Schickele has studied composition with Roy Harris and Vincent Persichetti, graduate graduated from Juilliard where he has also taught, and has had a Ford Foundation Composer-in-Residence grant. He has to his credit symphonic commissions from the St. Louis and Louisville orchestras, music for four feature films, and segments of Sesame Street. He was one of the composer-lyricists for Oh, Calcutta!, and has been composer, arranger-conductor for Jean Baez and other recording artists—a most imposing list. If you haven't been fortunate enough to have heard one of his New York performances, hopefully you own or have listened to one of his numerous recordings.

His oral discourses and comments are as loaded with the unexpected as is his music; and unless you are hopelessly, but really hopelessly down in the dumps, it should be great fun and a one-of-a-kind experience that definitely should not be missed. Even if you're the pompously serious type, you might be surprised, and if you're just tired enough to need only one little silly sound or phrase to set you off, you should have a hilarious time.

You might just possibly not want to go a second time since it was a bit long; nevertheless once is a must. The Poughkeepsie audience applauded long and loud, recalling the Professor for half a dozen curtain calls.

The Kleine Nichtmusik and the two P.D.Q. Bach concertos in which Schickele appeared as soloist (Gross Concerto for Diverse Flutes, and the Concerto for Piano vs. Orchestra) were directed by Leon Botstein, inaugurated last fall as president of Bard College. A tall, handsome figure, he has a long background of musical training and experience, peaked perhaps by his conducting of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the White Mountain Festival in the Summer of 1974. Mr. Botstein handled his assignment with ease, and it was apparent that he was very much at home on the podium.

A somewhat reduced orchestra but one quite adequate to meet the demands of the evening provided a reliable foil for Professor Schickele's antics. Never again, hopefully, will one see a horn player tumble from his chair, the concertmaster arguing with the piano soloist, or a violinist being "sent to the showers." In fact, the members of the orchestra seemed to be having as much fun as the audience, and that's saying quite a bit. It was a long way from J.S. Bach and the other B's of previous concerts, but it was a delightful way to conclude a season, and to leave almost everyone with a sense of enthusiasm in looking forward to the next fall's season which will open in September.

'You Can't Take It With You' at Coleman

KINGSTON—John A. Coleman High School's Class of 1976 will present the classic comedy, "You Can't Take It With You." On May 7, 8 and 9 at the Hurley Avenue school. Written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, the play has been adapted and directed by Vincent G. Voerg.

"You Can't Take It With You" is set in a very "untypical" home in the 1930s, a house where everyone can do as he pleases, with no questions asked. The plot, although humorous, is also meaningful, and promises to offer an evening of fun for all.

Curtain for each performance is at 7:30 p.m. Tickets may be ordered by contacting the school.

WAITING FOR THEIR CUES are Jim Sottile (Mr. Kirby), Mary Jane Gaffken (Penny Sycamore), Chris Lukaszewski (Mrs. Kirby), Sue Weber (Gay Wellington), Janice Higgins (Alice Sycamore).

THE TRIO ON THE COUCH, Bob Stall, Mary Beth Houck, David Jones, give their undivided attention (for the moment) to Bill Knott.

Ignored Card-sender Wants Recognition

DEAR ABBY: Since January 1, 1974 I have sent 911 greeting cards—not counting Christmas and Easter cards. (I sent 3,455 of those.) I mean get-well, sympathy, birthday, graduation, wedding, anniversary and new baby cards.

I go through our local newspaper to be sure I haven't overlooked a birth, engagement, accident or death. I am on a limited income and can't afford to send presents, but I spend as much time shopping for appropriate cards as most people do in the selection of gifts.

My question: Aren't people supposed to acknowledge cards? Only 32 out of the 911 people I sent cards to bothered to let me know that they received them. I am listed in the telephone directory. Am I wrong to expect thanks?—INGORED

DEAR IGNORED: Well-bred people acknowledge cards with a telephone call, a note or a verbal "thank you"—should they see the giver before they have the opportunity to call or write. However, the giver who is motivated by genuine thoughtfulness will send the card and forget it.

To keep a ledger on "thanks receivable" suggests that the giver is unduly interested in placing the burden of gratitude on casual acquaintances. Still, the

Budget Meeting

WOODSTOCK—A meeting on the proposed budget is planned for May 6 at Woodstock Elementary School cafeteria beginning at 7:30 p.m. The meeting offers voters an opportunity to review the budget before the final vote later this month. All are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

laziness and boorishness of those who fail to acknowledge a thoughtful gesture is inexcusable.

DEAR ABBY: I don't understand what you mean when you tell girls: "Save yourself for the man you marry."

How does a girl know WHICH man she's going to marry? I have gone with five different guys at different times, and I thought I was going to marry all of them, but I'm still single.

Will you please explain what you mean?—STILL SINGLE

DEAR SINGLE: I mean, "Save yourself for the man you marry—not the man you MAY marry."

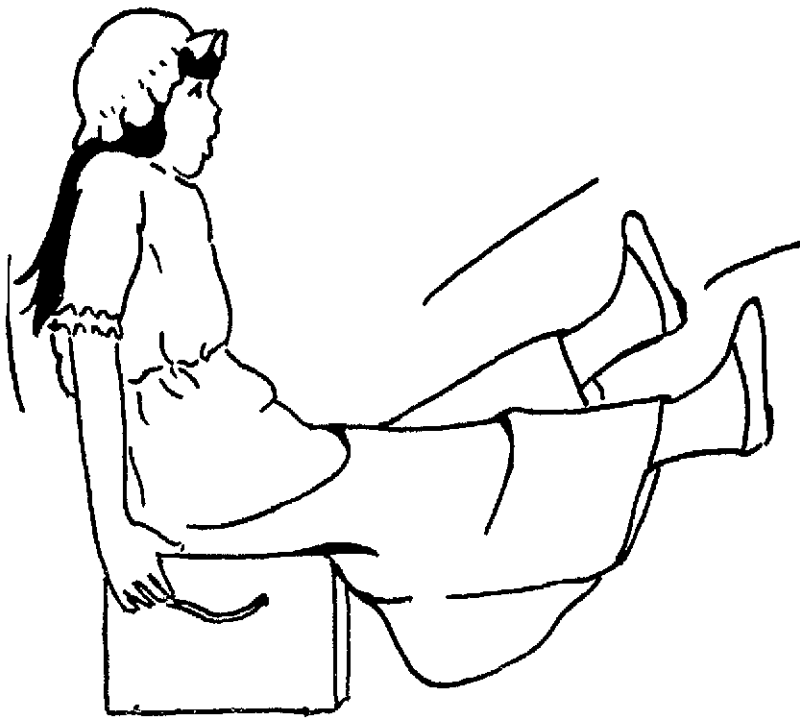

DEAR ABBY: Saw the letter in your column from the lady complaining because the bachelor in the next apartment snored so loud he kept her awake nights.

I am a single lady looking for a nice single man. If the bachelor who snores is between 45 and 60, please send me his name and phone number because I'm lonesome, easy to get along with and very hard of hearing.—RITA IN RICHLANDS, VA

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me the difference between a maid and a housewife? My husband says there is no difference. Thank you.—RICHMOND HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: If you have a maid, you'd better keep your eye on your husband.

"POWER IN THE WOODPILE"

Colonial Play at Zena School

WOODSTOCK—The May 4 promises to be a night at Zena Elementary School in Woodstock. At 7:30 p.m. Zena School Association will hold its final general meeting including election of 1976-77 officers.

The play, "Power in the Woodpile," will be staged by youngsters ages eight through 15. The play evolved from a study of the ideological origins of the Revolution, with a 1773 setting, the production was written and directed by Elizabeth Askue. Members of the talented group are recipients of a Kingston Trust Mini-grant.

Parents are urged to come early to vote in the Kingston City School Board elections which will also take place May 4 at Zena School, and bring their children to the entertaining "Power in the Woodpile."

Woodstock Garden Club Receives Top State Award

WOODSTOCK—The Woodstock Garden Club has received, through the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, the top award in the state, the Civic Concern Award given by Sears Roebuck for 1976 throughout the U.S. This honor is the result of the Woodstock Garden Club's Environmental Improvement Project, "Millstream Point," on Route 375 and Millstream Road.

The concerted support and efforts of the Woodstock Town Board, Woodstock Chamber of Commerce and residents of Woodstock, with the Garden Club, made this an outstanding accomplishment. The Woodstock Garden Club will hold its first meeting of the season Wednesday, May 5 at 1 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Woodstock Reformed Church. The program will be "Horticulture for Flower Shows," presented by Mrs. Ernest Lindroth, Mrs. Clyde Deavers and Mrs. Lamont Marvin.

Indonesian Officials Set for BPW Social

KINGSTON—Consul General Trihardjo of Indonesia, his assistant, Consul Odjahan Silalahi and members of their staff will be arriving in Kingston on Saturday, May 8 to participate in a gala Indonesian Night at The Colonade (former Governor Clinton). Festivities will begin with a receiving line at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7.

The event is sponsored by the International Committee of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, an affiliate of the National and International Federation of BPW Clubs, Inc. Chairperson Dorothy A. Narel has confirmed the planned visit by the Indonesian officials, adding that the program will include Indonesian music, dancers, art and sculpture exhibit as well as Indonesian food. It will be a social, cultural and educational evening.

The public is invited to attend for it is BPW's purpose, through its International Committee and national association with the United Nations, to foster better understanding of all people's throughout the world.

Tickets are available from Collette Sonnenberg, immediate past president; Jewells Cioni, incoming president; committee members Lorraine Shultis, assistant chairperson; Dolores O'Connell, Hilde M. DeNardo of West Hurley; Connie Weiss Goffredi of Woodstock; Beverly Reese, Carmela Carmody, Norma Smith and Ruth Kuriger of Kingston.

Those planning to attend are asked to wear the dress of other nations to make it a truly international gathering. However, dress for the occasion is optional.

THE ANNUAL SPRING DINNER DANCE sponsored by the Town of Saugerties Republican Club is set for May 15 at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties. Making final arrangements for the gala are Gene Davis, seated, club president; Mary McMickle, publicity chairperson; and Bruce Dederick, dinner dance chairman. Tickets are now available from Franklin Clum Jr.

MRS. BETTY KASPER, president of the Bennett PTA, presents a cash award to 4th grader Cynthia Leichte, grand prize winner in architecture contest.

Fourth Grader Earns Award In Architecture Contest

BOICEVILLE— During National Library Week, April 4-10, the Bennett Elementary School Library sponsored an architecture contest. Fourth, fifth and sixth graders were invited to construct any kind of building, historical, present day, future or fantasy structure. Entire buildings, single rooms, models or drawings were eligible. Imaginative use of materials was encouraged.

The grand prize winning house was a stone and mortar house built by a fourth grader, Cynthia Leichte. She researched stone houses in Ulster County, read about them and visited some. She patterned her house after the Davis Tavern in Stone Ridge. Her house is quite authentic and beautifully crafted, with a paper shingle roof, stone chimney and plank floor.

Other winners were Lynn Olsen Greg Egolf; a joint feudal village project by: Matt Olkowski, Drue Lynch, Ben Komorek and Bob Brown, a joint teepee project by: Kim Calhoun and Roberta Smith; a special award for interior design to Cathy Willing and Carolyn Leonor.

Approximately 30 children participated in the contest and submitted a variety of dwell-

SING ALONG AND HORA DANCE CONTEST

Program Announced For Art Group

KINGSTON— Final plans for the June trip to the Metropolitan Museum in New York will be discussed at the May 4 meeting of Ulster County Art Association. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Warren Russell, 60 King-top Road, Kingston. Reservations for the trip are required.

The program, geared to a Bicentennial theme, will include a film entitled "The American Vision." The film explains the success of the Hudson River School due to the interest in painting the American scene. Capable painters were developing here but the need to express their vision of America led the best of them to first study abroad for the training that was unavailable here. The film illustrates the developments in American painting from the European sophistication to the tradition of realism in America.

Vilma Ruehman may be contacted for details. Refreshments will be served.

Rummage Sale

KINGSTON— Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, is holding its spring rummage sale today and Tuesday. Hours are now to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 this evening; tomorrow 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Co-chairpersons are Rosalie Eckdich and Lee Salomon.

Florence Gussett has arranged a special program which will feature a talk and demonstration on flower arrangements by Mrs. Myrtle Brown. The centerpiece will be awarded after the program. A special Mother's Day dessert will be served.

Those planning to take the Donor Day trip on Wednesday, June 2 will see the production, "A Chorus Line."

The Mother's Day general meeting is scheduled for May 12 at 8 p.m. in the social hall.

Annual Fly-In At High Falls

HIGH FALLS— The High Falls Civic Association announces its annual Fly-In on Sunday, May 23, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Carleton Beach Field on Lucas Avenue in High Falls. This year's Fly-In will include kite flying, helium balloon launching, and radio controlled model airplane flying.

A special feature will be a presentation by Peter Rooney in his magnificent 75-foot, lighter-than-air balloon. This demonstration will include an explanation of the technique of balloon flying and afford the public an opportunity to observe the launching and flight of this unique aircraft.

Further information may be had from Bernie Spar of Rosendale.

By UPI

Bob McAdoo and the Buffalo Braves won the first half of their game Sunday with Boston, but Charlie Scott and the Celtics won the second half, the game and the NBA Eastern Conference semifinals. Buffalo led 55-50 at halftime, thanks to 19 points by McAdoo, the four-time NBA scoring champ. But McAdoo ran out of gas after the intermission and a fired-up Scott scored nine straight points midway through the fourth quarter as the Celtics won 104-100, eliminating the Braves four games to two.

Nets get jump on Nuggets, story on page 12.

In Sunday's other NBA game, the Golden State Warriors ran the Phoenix Suns into the ground as Rick Barry scored 38 points to give the defending league champions a 128-103 victory and a 1-0 lead in the Western Conference finals. It was the second time in three years that the Celtics had gotten past the Braves into the Eastern Conference playoff finals. The best-of-seven title series begins Tuesday night in Boston where the Celtics will go against the Central Division champion Cleveland Cavaliers.

Scott took over after Buffalo's Randy Smith, who was guarding him, picked up his fifth personal foul.

"That's the only way you can stop McAdoo," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn, "just wait till he gets tired from shooting. I thought Randy Smith, with the fouls, was big factor. He had to guard Charlie."

Buffalo enjoyed nine-point leads three times in the third quarter, but Jo Jo White's 11 points helped Boston cut the deficit to one, 78-77, after three quarters.

Baskets by White and Scott put Boston on top for good.

Scott finished with a game-high 31 points, White added 23 and Boston got 14 apiece from John Havlicek and Paul Silas. Don Nelson added 10 in a reserve roll as did Dave Cowens.

McAdoo led the Braves with 28 points, Smith had 24, Ernie DiGregorio 16 and Jim McMillan 12.

Golden State, not especially happy opening the conference finals only 40 hours after a grueling overtime victory over Detroit, practically blew the Suns off the court.

Barry hit a variety of drives and long jumpers for 26 points in the first half to give the Warriors a 58-48 halftime lead. The all-pro forward said he shot erratically in the Detroit series so he decided "to try and go to the basket more today."

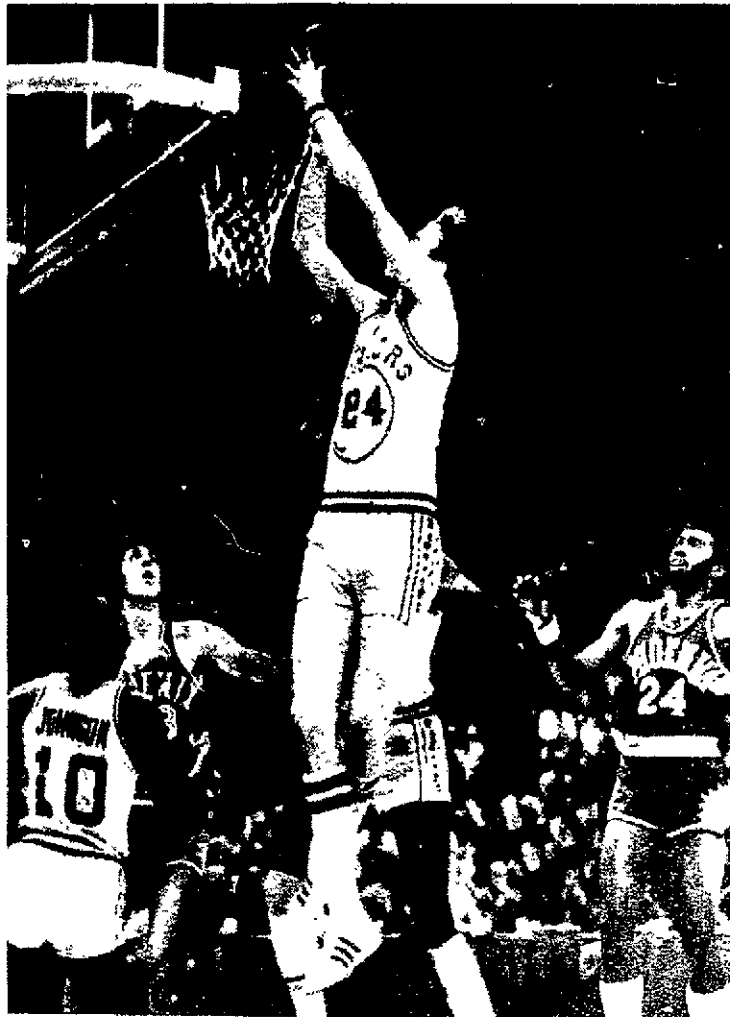

"Phoenix doesn't have the shot blocker that Detroit had in Bob Lanier so if you can get inside on the Suns, you have a good chance to score," he said.

While his shooting was something to behold, Barry said, "Our early steals broke them out of their patterns and helped our fast break operate, too."

Phoenix committed 30 turnovers in the game and yielded 15 steals to Golden State. Barry had seven of those steals, seven rebounds and three assists.

"They probably thought they had us at an advantage because of our short rest," Barry said. "But we're the kind of team that responds to a demanding schedule."

The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played here Wednesday night with the third and fourth games switching to the Suns home court Friday and Sunday.

Rick Barry goes up for two.

May Didn't Get His No-Hitter and Yankees Didn't Win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Rudy May wasn't thinking about a no-hitter Sunday afternoon, not even after the New York Yankee left-hander had pitched eight innings without allowing the Kansas City Royals a hit.

"I really wasn't pulling for a no-hitter," said May. "I just kept hoping we'd get a couple more runs. That was the big thing. Maybe if we could have gotten two or three more runs, I could have thought about it. But the big thing was just winning."

May didn't get his no-hitter and the Yankees didn't win. Amos Otis ended May's bid with a double to lead off the bottom of the ninth inning.

Otis moved to third on a ground out and scored on John Mayberry's sacrifice fly to tie the score 1-1. Two innings later, Jim Wohlford scored on a fielder's choice to give the Royals a 2-1 victory.

May was relieved by Sparky Lyle after Otis' hit. May left the mound with an empty feeling. But not as empty as he felt when Wohlford slid home with the winning run for Kansas City in the 11th inning.

"I lost a no-hitter, so what?" said May. "We lost the game. What did we get out of it? Nothing. That hurts, man. Losing the game hurts more than losing the no-hitter."

Otis hit a curve ball for the double. "My curve ball is my best pitch," said May. "I've got to go with it. If I throw him a fastball and he hits it out, then I'm stupid. But if he hits my curve, at least I know he hit my best."

Otis said he was waiting for the curve. "I was looking for it on every pitch," said the Kansas City centerfielder.

"That's all he was throwing me.

"I got a lot of pleasure out of that hit. I hate to break up a man's no-hitter, but I like to beat Billy Martin (the New York manager). I don't like that man. How can you like a man who tells his pitchers to throw at hitters?"

Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers appears once again to be the "Mr. America" of 1974.

The muscular outfielder, who won the American League's Most Valuable Player Award at the age of 23 in 1974, experienced a "lost year" in 1975 when his batting average plummeted to a mere .226.

"Winning the Most Valuable Player Award was the biggest thrill of my life," Burroughs explained during the winter. "I tried to live up to it. I got into the habit of over-swinging and I couldn't get out of it."

Burroughs, nicknamed "Mr. America" by his teammates in 1974, has leveled off his swing this season, reduced his strikeouts and still hits balls over the horizon because of his great strength. He's made eight hits in his last 10 at-bats, has a .308 batting average, has five homers and knocked in 14 runs, sparking the Rangers to their early-season two-game first place lead in the AL West.

Burroughs' three-run homer—each of his last three homers have been with two runners on base—snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning Sunday and lifted the Rangers to a 6-3 victory over the AL champion Boston Red Sox. It was the Rangers' fourth straight win over the Red Sox and they dealt Luis Tiant his first loss after three victories.

Gaylord Perry survived early troubles.

retired 19 of the last 21 batters and wound up pitching a seven-hitter for the Rangers while striking out five and walking none. He has won three games and lost two this season.

The Red Sox took a 3-0 lead in the third inning on a solo homer by Dwight Evans and a two-run shot by Bernie Carbo. Tom Grieve homered in the fifth for the Rangers' first run and Mike Hargrove hit a two-run homer in the sixth to tie the score at 3-3.

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Oakland A's 4-3 after a 6-2 loss, and the California Angels topped the Cleveland Indians 5-4 after a 12-3 defeat in other AL games. Milwaukee at Minnesota and Detroit at Chicago were postponed because of inclement weather.

• Orioles 2-4, A's 6-3

Billy Williams hit the 416th homer of his career and Joe Rudi also homered in the first game as Vida Blue pitched a seven-hitter for his second victory for the A's. Reggie Jackson son drove in the tying run in his third plate appearance as an Oriole and Ken Singleton's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run for Baltimore in the sixth inning of the second game. Wayne Garland went 7 1/3 innings in relief of Mike Cuellar to win his first game of the season.

Indians 12-4, Angels 3-5

Rico Carty's two-run homer and a solo shot by Buddy Bell were the big blows of a 10-hit attack which carried the Indians to their first-game victory. Bobby Bonds drove in two runs in a three-run first inning and Jerry Remy drove in two runs to lead the Angels in the second game. Andy Hassler suffered his 14th straight loss over two seasons for the Angels in the first game.

Astros and Mets Prove Virdon Right

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manager Bill Virdon says as long as his Houston Astros can stay close to a team in the late innings, they'll win their share of games.

First his Astros proved him right ... and then so did the New York Mets.

The teams split a doubleheader Sunday, with Houston taking the opener 5-4 and New York the nightcap 7-4. The second game victory enabled the Mets to stay atop the NL East by a half-game over Philadelphia.

"We've got some people in the lineup who can hit," said Virdon after second baseman Larry Milbourne poked an opposite field single in the ninth inning to score pinch runner Wilbur Howard and break a 4-4 tie and win the first game. "When we're hitting, we're scoring runs. As long as we can stay close late in the ball game, we'll win our share."

Milbourne, a switch-hitter, drove in a run with a single batting right-handed in a four-run fifth inning off southpaw Mickey Lolich. Bob Apodaca relieved Lolich in that inning and allowed only one hit until the ninth when Greg Gross led off with a single.

Gross was replaced by pinch runner Wilbur Howard, who moved up on a sacrifice and went to third on a fly out before scoring on the single by Milbourne, this time batting left-handed against Apodaca, 21. J.R. Richard recorded his fourth win in five decisions for the Astros.

The Mets proved Virdon right in the second game when they jumped on three pitchers for four runs in the sixth inning to blow open a 1-1 game. No longer close, a Houston rally tell short by one in the eighth and Del Unser put the game out of reach with a two-run home run in the Mets' eighth.

Jerry Koosman struck out nine batters in 7 2/3 innings before giving way to Skip Lockwood following a two-run home run by pinch hitter Cliff Johnson. Koosman picked up his second victory in three decisions.

"Jerry is a good spring pitcher," New York Manager Joe Frazier said. "So why not take advantage of it? We might move him back to the bullpen when it gets warmer."

Although Randy Jones couldn't be happier in San Diego, he can't wait to get to New York.

Jones, ace of the San Diego Padres pitching staff, became the major leagues' top winner Sunday by stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 on six hits and just 85 pitches. It was Jones' fifth win in six decisions, but there's still at least one world the Padre southpaw knows he has yet to conquer— "The Big Apple."

"New York is where it's at," Jones said last year after being nosed out by the Mets' Tom Seaver for the National League Cy Young Award. "It's where reputations are made."

Someone was quick to point out to Jones Sunday that his next start will be in New York against the Mets.

"Outstanding," he said. "I can't wait to get there. I love that town. It's a great baseball city and I'd like to make up for the disappointing way I pitched there last year. I know that probably had a lot to do with my losing the Cy Young Award. I didn't impress the New York writers too much."

The Padres gave Jones all the run support he needed with a four-run sixth inning highlighted by Doug Rader's three-run homer. In that inning, Padres rookie outfielder Jerry Turner extended his hitting streak to eight games. Jones, meanwhile, walked none and struck out only one.

"I like things simple," Jones said. "Ground balls for outs. Not necessarily strikeouts. As for the Cy Young, I don't think I've got an edge. If you start thinking about numbers, it can drive you crazy. Last year it took me four times to win my 12th game."

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Los Angeles put away St. Louis 3-1, Philadelphia romped over Atlanta 8-2, Montreal downed Cincinnati 8-4, and Chicago swept a pair of extra inning 6-5 victories over San Francisco.

Dodgers 3, Cardinals 1

Pinch hitter Bill Buckner laid down a perfect bunt to score Steve Garvey with the go-ahead run in the seventh inning as Dodger southpaw Doug Rau won his fourth game without a loss. Garvey accounted for an insurance Los Angeles run with a solo homer in the eighth. Rau has now won 10 straight over two seasons.

Expos 8, Reds 4

Barry Foote banged out a bases-loaded single with two out in the 16th inning and Pepe Mangual followed with a two-run double to give the Expos their marathon win over Cincinnati. The Reds, who blew a 4-3 lead in the ninth, stranded 19 base runners.

Phillies 8, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt's two-run double off loser Andy Messersmith capped a four-run second inning and the Phillies scored four more in the ninth to complete their rout of Atlanta. It was the Phillies' seventh consecutive road victory and the Braves' seventh straight loss.

Cubs 6, 6, Giants 5, 5

Randy Hundley's pinch hit sacrifice fly with the bases loaded scored Dave Rosello with the winning Cubs' run in the 11th inning of the nightcap. In the opener, Jose Cardenal's sixth hit of the game, a single, scored Rosello from second with two out in the 14th. Cardenal was 7-for-9 in the doubleheader.

Mel Gets Some Experience

BOSTON (UPI) — Mel Bridgman picked up years of experience in a one-minute span Sunday night to give the Philadelphia Flyers the edge in their quest for a third straight Stanley Cup.

The rookie center's tally at 2:11 of the third period, just 60 seconds after he blew a shot at an open net, started a three-goal, third-period outburst that gave the Flyers a 5-2 win over the Boston Bruins and a 2-1 advantage in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The fourth game will be played Tuesday night at Boston Garden.

The Flyers had trailed 2-1 until Bill Barber's shot with 49 seconds left in the second period knotted the game and sent the Flyers into the lockerroom with the momentum in their favor.

About a minute into the final session, Bridgman—the No. 1 amateur taken in the draft last summer—took a pass from Gary Dornhoefer 25 feet to the left of Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert.

"But I panicked," said Bridgman. "I tried to shoot it to the short side. I tried to shoot it quick and missed the net. It was due to inexperience. It was more like a shot that I would have taken in October."

Bridgman was back on the ice a short time later when Larry Goodenough fired from the right point. He skated down the left lane and found the rebound right on his stick 10 feet from the goal with an open side staring back at him.

"I didn't get a good piece of that one either but I had the whole side to shoot for and the puck went in," said the 21-year-old from Trenton, Ont.

NHL scoring champion Reggie Leach, who has tallied in the last seven games, boosted the score to 4-2 less than five minutes later with his ninth playoff goal. Tom Bladon, on a two-on-one break with Bridgman, added the final goal.

Wayne Stephenson shut out Boston in the third period and made 26 saves overall for his second straight win.

Boston coach Don Cherry said Stephenson's goaltending and the three third-period goals were less crucial than Barber's tally late in the second period.

"We never should allow a goal in the last minute of a period," said Cherry. "Never, never, never—especially in a playoff game. It's inexcusable."

playoffs, having taken Chicago in four straight in the quarterfinals.

Ken Dryden, the league's Vezina Trophy winner with an NHL-best 2.03 goals-against average, has backstopped all seven Canadiens' victories. But he doesn't anticipate an easy entry into the finals.

"If we play the same way we did Saturday but get off to an earlier start we can win," said the 6-foot-4 goalie of Montreal's prospects on Tuesday. "But the Islanders are a better team than Chicago. Chicago at its best is not unlike the Islanders—they have a sound, dull but efficient style of play. But they're not as consistent."

"The Islanders are a very difficult team to play against. We've had a notable lack of success against them in the past two years."

But not in the past three games.

Fatigue Costs Chico, Isles

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Glenn Resch admitted he got a little tired Saturday night facing Montreal's barrage. That tiredness may have cost the Islanders any chance to recoup in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

"You have to give your best all the time," said the downcast rookie goaltender. "They just keep coming at you. They cover men well, they never let up. They're the best team I've ever played against."

Resch hadn't started a game for almost three weeks before opening to third game of the series against Montreal, but it didn't look that way for the first two periods. Resch was simply magnificent, rejecting shot after shot. Altogether, the 5-9 sparkplug made three super saves in the first period and nine in the second session, including five in a two minute span.

But the 20-day absence from the firing line—with the exception of a portion of the third period in the second game of this series—apparently caught up with Resch in the third period. Combined with the Islanders' inability to stop the Canadiens' relentless attack, Resch let in three goals in absorbing the loss.

"That might have been a sign of fatigue," he speculated. "I was a little tired in the third period."

"But I want to play in the next game. I'm not discouraged. We just have to change a few things—our forechecking and our breakout pattern."

Those changes will have to be effective. Montreal leads the best-of-seven series three games to none and can sweep into the final round with a victory here Tuesday night.

The Canadiens, the best team in the National Hockey League during the regular season, have not lost this year in the

Guthrie Is Established On USAC Racing Circuit

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Janet Guthrie moves onto Indianapolis today, confident she has turned the heads of some men drivers and established a name for herself in USAC championship racing.

Guthrie was 15th in Sunday's Trentonian 200 auto race. A broken gear box finished her on the 79th lap, but the 38-year-old former sports car champion may have carved another notch in her 13-year racing career.

Johnny Rutherford won the race when Gordon Johncock, leading by seven seconds going into the final lap, ran out of fuel.

Guthrie earned Rutherford's respect as a driver despite her rookie status and there were no dissenting remarks from those highly critical of her abilities before the race.

"I thought Janet drove a fine race," Rutherford said. "It's a shame she didn't have a better car."

Tom Sneva, who finished third behind Johncock in the 134-lap race, said Guthrie handled herself like a veteran. "She made a great effort to avoid an accident on turn three and spun sideways. She lost time, but did a fine job of recovering to get back in the race."

Guthrie was extremely excited about gaining USAC approval to take the rookie test and hopefully reach the qualifying stage for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

"I would be surprised if USAC turned me down for Indianapolis after my ride today," Guthrie said as she pressed a cool can of soda to her sweating forehead.

"I ran strong, while I ran I felt good. I hope the other guys approved of my driving."

"The fourth gear disintegrated while I was under power. I had a third gear, but this made running very difficult. My pit crew advised me there was a hole in the casing."

"I must say, most of the drivers are really sportsmen. I'm just a rookie and here I am getting all the fuss. I'm delighted that one driver was wrong. He said I'd never last 40 laps."

Rutherford said he just happened to be in the right spot at the right time to win when Johncock dropped out.

"I thought the yellow had come on when I saw Gordie slow down. But then I saw him go to the pits, and I thought, 'Well, I'll be a son-of-a-gun'."

Last year at Indianapolis, Rutherford was leading the race when his crew decided not to gamble on his running out of fuel and ordered him in for a fillup. While he pitted, Bobby Unser took the lead. A sudden downpour brought on a yellow caution light and Unser still had the lead when the heavy rain forced officials to halt the race.

Capri Team Sweeps In KBA Tourney

KINGSTON — Capri '400' completed a clean sweep Sunday as it repeated as handicap champions of the 1976 Kingston Bowling Association tournament and also won in the net division. Capri's three game team score was 2380, eleven pins better than Kingston Gold Classic. A three-game handicap of 279 put the leaders at 3159, six pins ahead of Lou's Cutting Corner.

Capri, which can only collect prize money in one division, thus took home the $600 handicap prize.

Ed Biro had a tournament high 243-192-236-671 to lead Capri. Others on the squad were Van Porter, 246-599, Don Haffay, 213-566; Jerry Smith, 204-558, and Bill Hart, 216-684.

Kingston Gold Classic, led by Bob Shelightner's 216-201-223-640, gained the net prize of $250. Ken LaCasse's 211-232-622 was another big gun in the KGC attack as it racked up scores of 913-1021-1035.

Lou's Cutting Corner, meanwhile, earned $300 by finishing second in the handicap division with a 3153. It was followed by Boyle's AC (3056, $200), Lane Masters (3047, $150), Five by Five (3042, $100), Five Axes (3033, $90), B & B Ceramics (3030, $75), White's Dairy Bar No. 1 (3029, $60), The Winning Five (3023, $55), Rondout Savings Bank (3013, $50), The Fantastic Five (3010, $40), and Jo Al's Restaurant (3000, $30).

The Handlebar, with Jack Ferraro hitting 623, Dave Ferraro, 618, and Tony Spada 607, was second in the net race with 2913. That paid off $125.00. Third was Kingston Auto Supply with 2829 good for $65. Bob (Fall) Smith had a 634 and Steve Ferraro a 610 to head the effort.

Bruce Barents and Charlie Ingalsby won the net doubles title with a 1239, stopping the three-year stranglehold Jerry Woodvine and Bud Lowe had.

Jones Released

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox announced plans Sunday to release unconditionally starting left fielder Cleon Jones, a veteran free agent who earned a spot with the club in spring training.

The Sox purchased the contract of hot-hitting second baseman Hugh Yancy from Iowa of the American Association and called him up for Tuesday's game in Baltimore. A club spokesman said Jones would be placed on waivers today.

on the crown. The latter pair was second this time, falling by a 1239-1217 count. The difference in the payoff was $75 compared to $40.

Barents and Ingalsby scored 590 and 649 respectively.

Jim Rose and Bob Shelightner were third with 1201 and won $20.

Ed Ebel and Charlie Cafalo won the handicap doubles event with 1314 to earn $150. Their scores were 584 and 586 respectively, with handicaps of 60 and 84 pins.

Following them were Joe Hinchey and Rich Schoenfeld (1305, $75), Ron White and Vince Provenzano Jr. (1290, $50), Erwin Liu and Paul Marburger Jr. (1282, $45), Vic Nerone and Al DiDonna (1257, $43), Ron Knott and Joe Knott (1256, $40) Rich Thornton and Bruce Bollin (1253, $35), John Bedell and Bob Elliot (1252, $30), John Fassbender and Al Fassbender (1250, $25), Herb Krein and Bob Crane (1246, $20), Leighton Childs and Terry Seidal (1233, $15), and Ken Boughton and Bill Noreika (1232, $12).

Shelightner took the net singles with a 653 to top LaCasse's 631. The prizes there were $50 and $30 respectively.

Other leaders were Mike Cashara (625, $20), John Cook 4 Jr. (617, $15), Frank Rittie (605, $12), and Norm Good (604).

Ken Decker used a 90 pin handicap on top of his 627 series for a 717 and the championship of that division. He earned $100 in the process. Behind him were Bob Nealis (714, $75), Lee Hotaling (704, $50), Dan Rizzo (692, $45), Carl Phillips (684, $40), Andy Collins (684, $35) and Leighton Childs (679, $25).

Also, Jack Corey and Karl Garger (tied at 675, $25); J Jim Uhl (665), Harold Lemister (663), and Tom DeMico, tied for $13, Al DiDonna (655) and Steve Longendyke (654) tied for $12.50; Rich Emerick (691), Bob Baker (649) and Rick Buck (648) tied for $12; Joe Fisher, John Schussler, and Erwin Liu at 645, tied for $11; Harold Schussler (643, $10); Bob Bradley (641, $9); Bob Cansas and Frank Deuire (640, tied for $7.50); and Jim Palmer (639, $6).

In the all-events it was Shelightner earning the $50 prize with a 640 in five-man, 609 in doubles, and 653 in singles for a 1902 total. Jack Ferraro was second, 102 pins behind and defending champ Charlie Ingalsby was third with 1785. They picked up $30 and $10 respectively.

Bob Nealis Sr. was handicap champ with 553 in doubles, 621 in singles, and 544 five-man for 1718 plus 279 for 1997. First prize was $100.

Edwin Liu was second with 1927 for 4 $50 while Harold Schussler was third with 1911 for $35. Jack Corey had 1884 for $30; Billy Sickler, 1875 for $26. Karl Garger, 1861 for $22, Jerry Smith and Rich Ruck tied with 1860 for $17.50 each, and Al DiDonna and Ken Decker, 1851 each for $5.

All listed money winners are unofficial.

Chris Ends Winless Spell

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (UPI) — A relieved Chris Evert said her play on Kerry Melville Reid's frequent drop shots "saved" her in the finals of the Family Circle Women's Tennis Tournament, which she won, 6-2, 6-2.

"I won 15 or 20 points putting away her drop shots, Evert said. "I think she was impatient. If I were her, I would have hung in there a little more and waited for a better opening."

Reid said she had a lot of chances but Evert "played very tough on those points. She was very quick getting back on the drop shots."

Evert, who hadn't won a tournament in two months, won the first five games of the first set, while Reid's drop shots kept falling into the net. The Australian seemed to find her range and won the next two games but Evert came back to put the set away in the eighth game.

Wawarsing Takes Shoot

WAWARSING — The team from the host Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association Club captured the season's first Ulster County Circuit Shoot Sunday.

Wawarsing scored 234 out of 250 to edge Saugerties Fish and Game, which had 232, Walker Valley, 206, and the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, 169.

(46), Bob Foos Jr. (46) and John Madison (46). Foos Sr. and Wayne Gilbert shared individual honors with a .960 percentage. Gilbert his 25 straight.

Rounding out the leader board were Bob Sperl with .947 and 25 straight; Tom Grossi, Roy Longendyke, and Bob Foos Jr., each with .920, Longendyke with 29 straight; Harold Depew with .915 and 25 straight; Sonny Saloto, with .907; and Guy Goldsmith, Fred Faerber, and Phil Moore, each with .900.

The trap shoot circuit picks up on May 16 at the Saugerties Fish and Game Club.

39 miles per gallon on the highway, 25 miles per gallon in the city.
These are the highly impressive EPA estimates of what the Rabbit got with standard transmission in the 1976 EPA tests.
(The mileage you get can vary, depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment, and the condition of your car.)
What about performance?
We didn't name it the Rabbit for nothing.

You're propelled from 0 to 50 in only 8.2 seconds.
At that range, a Datsun B-210 is 60% slower than our Rabbit!
Roominess?
As Road & Track put it: "Its space for passengers and luggage is remarkable."
87% of the space in the car is devoted to functional room. That means the Rabbit has as much head and leg room as some "mid-sized" cars.
Open the large Hatch-back, put the rear seat down, and you have more luggage space than in the trunk of a Cadillac Fleetwood.
Economy.
Performance.
Roominess.
There's only one car that can give you the best of all three worlds.

IT'S THE RABBIT

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

Tuesday, May 4
Your birthday today: Think of your experience this year as a combination holiday and free-form school. You wind up where you don't plan going, doing things you haven't yet imagined; it's up to you whether or not these are advances. Material success takes hard work plus "luck" attracted by clarity of spirit. Today's natives are wanderers in symbol if not in fact, have a streak of philosophic humor.

Aries (March 21-April 19): New projects are "out." Charity and serenity begin at home with your attitude toward those you love. Nuances of meaning and feeling pervade discussions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Broaden your activity, but don't branch off into unfamiliar territory. Clear out anything that's lost its purpose. Add to household conveniences.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Latch on to all advantages that require no strenuous effort. Profit or loss depends on how well you figure, not what you do. Build up reserves.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Set up each detail of your design, not discussing long-range goals. People help if they don't have to supply much energy, drop out when they do.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Look back: you find you skipped some item necessary for a successful enterprise. In the midst of trouble-shooting, take a break for meditation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Material affairs cease concern, with no remedy in sight. Help friends, but don't bail them out of financial obligations. Optimism in business wins.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Riding on momentum of yesterday's start, exert yourself to maintain both quality and quantity. Resist temptations to switch. It's a good day for planting.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You spend more time seeking shortcuts than you save putting to use what you find. You unconsciously learn much about the subject in the process.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Where others own part of the venture, bide your time till you've plans of your own. Active management of what people do for you is essential.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Organize matters well so no one can interfere. Definite routine is inevitable, but take time to prepare for the near future.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accept your inability to do anything drastic about personal situations at the moment. Take it easy, but turn out a reasonable amount of work.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Express yourself more emphatically at work and take pains to oppose casual departures from specifications. Romantic appeal, sentimental pursuits are favored.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

AWAY: (Q.) Leslie and I met at a picnic last summer. I quickly fell in love with her and thought she cared for me, too, because she was very friendly. Then she left for college. I wrote her and told her I loved her. She wrote back and told me not to be that way because she was going out with other guys and did not want to feel guilty. This hurt me.

Then other friends at college started telling me about things they had heard she did at parties. This gave me a sick feeling. But she has kept writing me warm letters and she is good to me when she is at home. I worry about her and ache when I think about her messing around. Maybe I should tell her goodbye, but I can't. Do you think I am worrying about nothing?—Lovesick in Louisiana

(A.) You have made two mistakes. You assumed Leslie loved you. And, from rumors and hearsay, you assume she is being free and easy.

By her deeds she seems to be telling you that she likes you and wants to be friends with you. But she has not yet promised you anything beyond that. Accept her friendship, if you can, and value it. It may grow. But don't try to make it happen overnight.

PARTING: (Q.) Gene and I have been going together for eight months and have been very happy. But now he is getting ready to move to Oregon. We have agreed to write, but I feel down all the time. I cry, and get in real bad moods and don't feel like doing anything. Please help me get over this. We are both 14.—Moody in Michigan

(A.) You don't want Gene to remember you as a crybaby who is always red-eyed with tears. So climb out of that dark canyon you're trying to hide in and SMILE. Smiling and talking cheerfully and positively will help you to FEEL positive, and to look and be your best for Gene during the last, important days.

Jim "South finds himself in a very normal three-notrump contract and wants to get as many extra tricks as he can out of the club suit"

Oswald "The correct play here is to lead toward dummy and stick in the ten spot. This play will cost him a trick if East holds a singleton club or jack and two small. It will gain a trick for him if West holds a small singleton club or four small clubs"

Jim "Expressing things in percentages, he will score five club tricks 42 per cent of the time and all important four club tricks 96 per cent of the time. If he leads to the king and back to the ace he scores five tricks just 38 per cent of the time and four tricks just 86 per cent of the time"

Oswald "A word of caution. If South held the ten of clubs instead of dummy his correct play would be to play the top clubs"

Consumer Superagency Proposed by Carey

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has proposed the creation of a consumer superagency, armed with subpoena powers, to represent the people of New York State. Carey unveiled a legislative package Saturday which would replace the current Consumer Protection Board, which does not have subpoena power, with a new Division of Consumer Advocacy. The new agency would not have authority to regulate business or industry, but Carey said it would use its powers to present the consumer point of view in court proceedings and before other agencies.

The governor's package also included bills which would allow advertising of prescription drugs and eyeglasses and require service stations to post the octane ratings of gasoline prominently. Other proposals would require stores to display their refund policies clearly and to print all notices regarding customers' rights to dispute billing errors in both Spanish and English. Carey called the creation of the new consumer agency "an essential part of my program to streamline and democratize the government of New York State."

Treatment of Jews Protested at NYC Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators waving banners in support of Soviet Jews filled Dag Hammarskjöld Plaza across from the United Nations Sunday. Political and religious leaders decried Soviet treatment of Jews and the refusal of Russian officials to allow emigration of dissidents. The noon rally, which was peaceful, was preceded by a series of pre-dawn explosions in midtown, which did minor damage and injured no one. The Jewish Armed Resistance Strike Force claimed credit for the bombings, calling them a retaliation for Soviet treatment of Jews.

The detonations shattered windows at two midtown banks and a bookstore, slightly damaged a concrete wall outside the U.N. Library and jarred a sidewalk grating outside the national headquarters for the Communist party. Because of the explosions, police beefed up security at the rally, which occurred without incident. Margie Davis, associate director of the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry, said the blasts were not connected with the "Solidarity Sunday" rally.

Sunday's shine indeed brought everyone out. Merchants sold their wares; soothsayers spoke of the future, but of course they didn't have presidents in medieval times so there weren't any prophecies of this year's election. The day continued bringing fine family fun: there were plays, minstrels, and even knights saving ladies fair. All the festivities brought a hunger that King Arthur would have been proud of and there was plenty of good medieval food: roast suckling pig, ribs, chicken, cheese and bread along with ale and cider.

It was a success according to the many participants and attendants. One Ulster County resident put it this way: "where else can I bring my entire family for a great day of free fun?" Yes, the fun was free and easy and again as Jack Lawson exclaimed, "time stopped this weekend in Ulster County."

Paltz Police Probe Death

Police Beat

NEW PALTZ—New Paltz police are investigating the death of a man found dead at 11 p.m. Saturday in a New Paltz motel.

Police said that the man has been identified as Harlow W. Snyder, 60, of Connelly. They said his death was apparently from natural causes and that no foul play is suspected.

A coroner's report is being awaited from the Kingston City Laboratory to determine the cause of death.

Search for Girl

Town of Ulster police are searching for a girl missing from her home since Friday.

Gail Mary Platzner, of the Lake Katrine Apartments, Lake Katrine, was last seen by her parents Friday after supper, when she left and failed to return. When last seen she was wearing blue dungaree pants, a light blue ski jacket and work boots.

She is described as being 5 feet three inches, 114 pounds, brown eyes, and long brown hair. Anyone with information concerning her whereabouts is asked to contact Chief Meyer Levy of the Town of Ulster police at 382-1111.

Poor Condition

Michael Charles Hogan, 17, of High Falls, is in poor condition in the intensive care section of Benedictine Hospital today after being injured in a one-car accident Saturday.

Ellenville State Police said Hogan was driving north on Mohonk Road at 4:40 p.m. when he went off the road at the Mossy Brook Road intersection and struck a utility pole. He was pinned in the car for about a half hour before being freed.

Charges of using a car without the owner's permission and being an unlicensed operator are pending against Hogan, police said.

Two Hospitalized

Two persons were hospitalized Saturday after a head-on collision on Route 299 east at Jolyn Road, Town of New Paltz.

New Paltz police said that Rosalie Amato of Highland was eastbound on Route 299 when she collided with Henry Reichert of 76 Glenwood Avenue, Poughkeepsie, who was westbound. Ms. Amato was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital, Reichert to St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie, and both are in serious condition.

rested two Ellenville brothers Sunday after a fight on Main Street, Glasco.

Allen Yerkes was charged with reckless endangerment and Mark Yerkes with first degree assault. Police said they allegedly made obscene gestures to a person on the street, got out of their car, and struck the unidentified victim with a car jack.

They were confined to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail each for a re-appearance in justice court Wednesday.

One Injured

Edwin Lamon, 18, of Box 610, Kerhonkson, was admitted to Benedictine Hospital Sunday evening after being injured in a motorcycle accident on Samsonville Road. Police said he lost control of his cycle and struck a mailbox. He was taken to the hospital by the Olive Rescue Squad and was reported in stable condition today.

DWI Charge

William Michaels, 28, of 432 Albany Avenue, was arrested Sunday night after his car struck a parked vehicle owned by Robert Dennison of 144 Henry Street, driving it into another parked car owned by Edmond Zolien of 143 Henry Street.

Michaels, who was not injured, was charged with driving while intoxicated and with failure to keep right.

"faire" way on Sunday for more fun and games. Jack Lawson, the Faire Master led his joustlers, magicians, faire ladies and knights in an opening parade amid a large welcoming crowd.

While Saturday's rain didn't exactly keep everyone away:

Sunday's shine indeed brought everyone out. Merchants sold their wares: soothsayers spoke of the future, but of course they didn't have presidents in medieval times so there weren't any prophecies of this year's election.

The day continued bringing fine family fun: there were plays, minstrels, and even knights saving ladies fair.

All the festivities brought a hunger that King Arthur would have been proud of and there was plenty of good medieval food: roast suckling pig, ribs, chicken, cheese and bread along with ale and cider.

It was a success according to the many participants and attendants. One Ulster County resident put it this way, "where else can I bring my entire family for a great day of free fun?"

Yes, the fun was free and easy and again as Jack Lawson exclaimed, "time stopped this weekend in Ulster County."

NEW PALTZ—New Paltz police are investigating the death of a man found dead at 11 p.m. Saturday in a New Paltz motel.

Police said that the man has been identified as Harlow W. Snyder, 60, of Connelly. They said his death was apparently from natural causes and that no foul play is suspected.

A coroner's report is being awaited from the Kingston City Laboratory to determine the cause of death.

Search for Girl

Town of Ulster police are searching for a girl missing from her home since Friday.

Gail Mary Platzner, of the Lake Katrine Apartments, Lake Katrine, was last seen by her parents Friday after supper, when she left and failed to return. When last seen she was wearing blue dungaree pants, a light blue ski jacket and work boots.

She is described as being 5 feet three inches, 114, pounds, brown eyes, and long brown hair. Anyone with information concerning her whereabouts is asked to contact Chief Meyer Levy of the Town of Ulster police at 382-1111.

Poor Condition

Michael Charles Hogan, 17, of High Falls, is in poor condition in the intensive care section of Benedictine Hospital today after being injured in a one-car accident Saturday.

Ellenville State Police said Hogan was driving north on Mohonk Road at 4:40 p.m. when he went off the road at

Two Hospitalized

Two persons were hospitalized Saturday after a head-on collision on Route 299 east at Jolyn Road, Town of New Paltz.

New Paltz police said that Rosalie Amato of Highland was eastbound on Route 299 when she collided with Henry Reichert of 76 Glenwood Avenue, Poughkeepsie, who was westbound. Ms. Amato was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital, Reichert to St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie, and both are in serious condition.

Glascow Fight

rested two Ellenville brothers Sunday after a fight on Main Street, Glasco.

Allen Yerkes was charged with reckless endangerment and Mark Yerkes with first degree assault. Police said they allegedly made obscene gestures to a person on the street, got out of their car, and struck the unidentified victim with a car jack.

They were confined to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail each for a re-appearance in justice court Wednesday.

One Injured

Edwin Lamon, 18, of Box 610, Kerhonkson, was admitted to Benedictine Hospital Sunday evening after being injured in a motorcycle accident on Samsonville Road. Police said he lost control of his cycle and struck a mailbox. He was taken to the hospital by the Olive Rescue Squad and was reported in stable condition today.

DWI Charge

William Michaels, 28, of 432 Albany Avenue, was arrested Sunday night after his car struck a parked vehicle owned by Robert Dennison of 144 Henry Street, driving it into another parked car owned by Edmond Zollen of 143 Henry Street.

Michaels, who was not injured, was charged with driving while intoxicated and with failure to keep right.

Consumer Superagency Proposed by Carey

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has proposed the creation of a consumer superagency, armed with subpoena powers, to represent the people of New York State.

Carey unveiled a legislative package Saturday which would replace the current Consumer Protection Board, which does not have subpoena power, with a new Division of Consumer Advocacy.

The new agency would not have authority to regulate business or industry, but Carey said it would use its powers to present the consumer point of view in court proceedings and before other agencies.

The governor's package also included bills which would allow advertising of prescription drugs and eyeglasses and require service stations to post the octane ratings of gasoline prominently.

Other proposals would require stores to display their refund policies clearly and to print all notices regarding customers' rights to dispute billing errors in both Spanish and English.

Carey called the creation of the new consumer agency "an essential part of my program to streamline and democratize the government of New York State."

Treatment of Jews Protested at NYC Rally

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of demonstrators waving banners in support of Soviet Jews filled Dag Hammarskjöld Plaza across from the United Nations Sunday. Political and religious leaders decried Soviet treatment of Jews and the refusal of Russian officials to allow emigration of dissidents.

The noon rally, which was peaceful, was preceded by a series of pre-dawn explosions in midtown, which did minor damage and injured no one. The Jewish Armed Resistance Strike Force claimed credit for the bombings, calling them a retaliation for Soviet treatment of Jews.

The detonations shattered

windows at two midtown banks and a bookstore, slightly damaged a concrete wall outside the U.N. Library and jarred a sidewalk grating outside the national headquarters for the Communist party.

Because of the explosions, police beefed up security at the rally, which occurred without incident.

Margie Davis, associate director of the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry, said the blasts were not connected with the "Solidarity Sunday" rally.
